The World Is Kinder Mlle. Lenglen's Mistake Ford and Rockefeller $7 for You—Saved

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

The world grows smaller, human sympathy wider. From Pleasant View Farm Geneva, N. Y., Mrs. Honore Burach sends one dollar. She read that Sergeant Yorke, good fighter of the Argonne, might lose his farm through mortgage foreclosure. Her dollar is to start a fund for him. Tennessee, proud State, may not want outside help. The question is referred to Mr. Mooney, editor of the Commercial Appeal. If he says assistance will be welcome, this writer will multiply Mrs. Burach's little gift by a hundred and secure other contributions.

From Berwyn, Ill., one who does not want his name mentioned, sends $200 "for relief of famine-stricken people in Russia." The money is sent to Lewis Clarke, obliging young banker, with request to change it for a draft on Petrograd to the order of Maxim Gorky.

Gorky will be asked to spend the money to relieve the hunger of a few old people—the young being better able to fight famine.

From the North, sympathy for a fighter of the South; from Illinois, sympathy for the hunger of distant Russia. We may eventually lose interest in killing each other and find all satisfaction in helping each other.

We have already replaced cannibalism with stock raising. Eventually emulation may replace competition.

Mademoiselle Lenglen played too soon after her landing in the United States. She had no right to play at all, and the fact that she has just crossed the ocean made it worse.

When you take a horse across the ocean you wait weeks before racing it.

How much more necessary is such a rest, for the most sensitive organization in the world, a French girl, that can jump six feet into the air and think where she will put the ball while she is jumping. You cannot judge Mademoiselle Lenglen by this defeat. She is just what she was before, the best tennis player in the world and the most marvelous female, human mechanism.

Henry Ford bought a railroad. He raised wages, cut freight rates and showed a profit. The railroad lost before he bought it.

The thing disturbs and surprises our respectable Interstate Commerce Commission. In the mysteriousness of its wisdom it objects to Ford reducing rates so rapidly and tells him he must stop cutting rates for the present. Other roads do not cause the Interstate Commerce Commission any such worry.

The railroads, it would seem, are not managed by people that understand railroading or transportation generally. Why doesn't the government buy the railroads, and let Ford and Rockefeller run them, taking whatever percentage is reasonable for their trouble and handing the rest to the government? Under that arrangement you could reduce rates, raise wages, increase profits and pay private owners fairly.

Some foolish Bavarians are crying "Long live the King." You would think Bavaria had had enough of kings of its kind. The crazy king was not so bad—he had a little private lake, a private theatre, and insisted on real rain. But instead of spending the people's money in war, he developed Wagner, who was worth a million times the money.

The former king and the crown prince are cheered now by men dressed in the old uniforms. But those are not the real Bavarians, and if any Bavarian king tries to return he will know how foolish Karl felt when he went back to Hungary.

GIRL'S ASSAILANTS HELD

ANGRY MOB AWED BY GUNS

Wareham, Aug. 18.—Gertrude Butler, eighteen-year-old daughter of H. L. Butler of Main street, Buzzards Bay, today positively identified John Dias and Benjamin Gomez as two of the three Cape Verde or Brava negroes who attacked her Monday night after robbing her escort, William O. Eldridge, on a lonely road near Centreville.

The identification was made in the Barnstable county jail, where the two men were taken early today following the attempt of an infuriated mob to lynch Dias in the jail here. It was the first time since her return home early Tuesday morning after the attack that the girl has been out of her father's sight. Ever since he learned of the tragedy he has been guarding his daughter, fearful that friends of the three negroes would attempt to kidnap her to prevent her testifying against them.

HELD IN $15,000 BAIL

As soon as positive identification of the two prisoners had been made by the girl, they were arraigned in the Barnstable District Court, charged with assault and robbery. They were held in $15,000 bail each for hearing Aug. 25.

Wareham and surrounding towns are marking time today, waiting for court action, but bitter feeling is seething under the surface against the men accused of one of the most atrocious crimes in local history.

Little is being said, but the general sentiment is that a bill sentence is far too light a punishment to inflict upon men guilty of such an attack as the three highwaymen made upon Miss Butler.

Chief of Police Smith, who spirited Dias away from Wareham when the crowd dispersed shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, and took him in an automobile to the Barnstable jail for safekeeping, says he thinks the temper of the town's citizens and has taken the necessary precautions to quell any further disorders.

He frankly admits that only the appearance of special guards, armed with sawed-off shotguns, restrained the mob from snatching Dias from the jail and hanging him on a convenient tree.

Chief Smith belittles the fact that he braved the anger of individual members of the crowd by personally appealing to them to allow the law to take its course.

"If Dias is guilty," he declared, "he will get what he deserves."

That promise and the sight of the sawed-off shotguns had an effect and the crowd dispersed with angry murmurs.

Only since did the crowd get out of hand. That was when the aged father of the girl appeared shortly after eleven o'clock. His white face and haggard eyes showing the tremendous strain he was laboring under. This sight was more than the many friends could stand and the mob broke for the jail with wild yells.

GUARDS FIRE IN AIR.

The guards, who had been stationed outside the little building, were also armed, however, and their guns blazed out six times. The charges of buckshot flew high in the air, but the sound quieted the crowd and there was no further disturbance.

After that there were a number of conferences between mob leaders and the police. Mr. Butler was the center of them. Today he said regarding that phase of the events which promise to become historic in this quiet town:

"We were not sure that Dias was the man we wanted. That was the only thing that held us back. If we had been absolutely positive that he was one of the unspeakable fiends who attacked my little girl we would have got him—shooting or no shooting."

Second Zion Woman Arrested for Showing Neck

By Associated Press.

Zion, Ill., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Elizabeth Nade was arrested today by Policeman Isaac Parry for wearing a dress, the neck of which was cut so low, according to the complaint, "as to partly show or expose the neck and shoulders of the wearer lower than the juncture of the pit of the neck with the clavicle or collar bones."

She is the second woman to be arrested since Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, issued his law against immodest dress.

The ordinance declares such clothing, "if worn in public or in places within public view, shall be deemed immodest, vulgar, indecent and suggestive of low and vicious morals, and tending to debauch innocence and purity and degrade the best interests of society."

MILLIONAIRE'S WIDOW BEGS AID OF POLICE

Pittsburgh, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Pauline Lutz spent Wednesday night in the matron's department at Central police station. She is old and feeble, a widow, penniless and deserted by her relatives. Her husband, Anton Lutz, once millionaire brewer of Pittsburgh, lost his fortune just before he died six months ago. Six weeks ago the palatial home at No. 801 California avenue was sold to meet a mortgage. Appeals to relatives for aid fell on deaf ears, so last night Mrs. Lutz found a police station bed her only refuge.

The Catholic Charities organization took her in charge today and will care for her.

CLAIM VANDERLIP URGES PEACE TREATY REVISION

Berlin, Aug. 18.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York City, who is in Germany studying the industrial and financial situation, was quoted by the Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung today, as saying that he believed Germany would be unable to meet the allied indemnity demands. "The whole world," it is alleged Mr. Vanderlip declared, "cannot overcome the present economic crisis until the peace treaty is revised."

PAY $1,500 IN PHONY MONEY TO BOOTLEGGERS

Fernie, B. C., Aug. 18.—Bootleggers have considered counterfeiting a befitting sideline business, in the belief that authorities who have arrested two United States citizens for giving a liquor dealer $1,500 in spurious $10 Federal Reserve notes. It was supposed they intended shipping liquor across the border.

"HORSE RACE" BANK OF GERMANY COLLAPSES

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The so-called "sport bank," an institution organized with branches throughout Germany to place bets on horse races, has collapsed. The liabilities are not definitely known, but are reported to be about 100,000,000 marks. The resources are placed at 37,000,000 marks.

DROPS DEAD AFTER DANCING A WALTZ

Springfield, Aug. 18.—At the conclusion of a fox trot waltz, given in the Grotto at Fisk Park here, Charles A. L. Wright, president of the Springfield Automobile Club, dropped dead on the floor of the dance hall. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause. He is survived by a father and a sister.

PRICE OF CRUDE OIL UP IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Aug. 18.—The Joseph Seep Agency here, Standard Oil purchasers, announced effective at 7 o'clock today, that the prices of two of the better grades of oil have been substantially advanced. Somerset heavy is boosted 20 cents to $1.10, and Somerset light is advanced 25 cents to $1.25. This is the first increase in oil prices at the wells in months.

FARM HANDS STRIKE AT $2 A WEEK WAGE CUT

Farm hands, both men and women, are out on strike at the Wyman Brothers farm, Lake street, Arlington. They resent a $2 a week cut in wages.

The strikers are picketing the farm but have promised there will be no violence.

15 BOSTON SLAYINGS TRACED

One hundred and twenty-two murders now are believed to have been traced to the operations of the Sicilian Camorra murder trust including:

Fifteen in Boston and vicinity.

Seventeen in New York and Brooklyn.

Seventy in Detroit.

Twenty in Chicago.

Revelations made to the police of New York today will, it is believed by the local authorities, aid in clearing up the mystery surrounding the fifteen unavenged murders in Belmont, Newton, Watertown and Waltham, extending over a period of ten years.

The New York disclosures trace the six score killings to the door of the Camorra, with headquarters in Palermo, Italy. The secrets of the society were laid bare by Bartolo Fontana, one of the members who had been doomed to death by the Brooklyn branch because "he knew too much."

The manner of his execution terrified him into appealing to the New York police for protection for he had been sentenced to be roasted to death in the ovens of a Brooklyn bakery.

BELMONT MAN SLAIN.

Captain Michael Fiaschetti of the New York Italian detective squad said today he has positive evidence linking the gangs with the killing of seventeen in New York, seventy in Detroit and twenty in Chicago.

Fontana confessed to having killed a lifelong friend, Carmillo Gazzo, on a lonely New Jersey farm July 30. Seventeen others, all alleged members of the gang, are under arrest, and Fiaschetti says two of the suspects have also confessed.

For ten years Boston police have been reporting little success with the series of Italian killings of the "Mafia" type.

The most recent of these killings took place last May. Louis Arnoi of War Secretary and Governor Endorse Fund for Slain Policeman's Family

Governor Cox has indorsed the Boston American Cuneo Fund being raised for the widow and nine children of Patrolman Andrew B. Cuneo, who was slain in the performance of his duty. He donated $50. The fund now totals $3,212.72.

The Governor's letter follows:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Executive Department. Aug. 16, 1921.

Editor Boston American:

My Dear Sir—I am inclosing my check for $50 as a contribution to the fund for the benefit of the family of Officer Cuneo, who died valiantly in the defence of his fellow men.

Very truly yours,

CHANNING H. COX.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks sent his appreciation and a check for $100. His letter follows:

War Department. Washington, Aug. 15, 1921.

Editor Boston American:

Gentlemen—The murder of Policeman Cuneo is a shocking calamity to his family and a distinct loss to the city. I approve of your action and send herewith a check to help.

Yours very truly,

JOHN W. WEEKS.

NOTED BEAUTY OF PHILADELPHIA TO BE BRIDE

Grace L. Fisher, Selection of Jury of Photographers, to Wed Manufacturer

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—Miss Gertrude M. Fisher of Merion Park, who protested against the verdict of a jury of photographers that she was the most beautiful girl in America, is about to become a matron.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Fisher to Carl F. Lauber, Jr., manufacturer of soft drinks, and came as a surprise to the many friends of the young woman.

After the verdict of the photographers was given out Miss Fisher was deluged with offers of marriage. Men of all ages, sizes and previous conditions of servitude, offered their hands and fortune, but the young woman spurned them.

Peculiarly enough she denied being the most beautiful girl in the country, and further declared she was not even the most beautiful girl in this city.

POSTAL SAVINGS SOAR IN BOSTON DISTRICT

An increase of $432,937 in postal savings for the month of July over June was reported in the Boston postal district by the Postal Savings New Bulletin today.

The total deposits here amount to $3,257,880, giving Boston a rating second only to Seattle, Wash., in the standing of postal districts for July. The increase at Seattle was $1,262,670.

According to the Postal Bulletin, there are now over 153 postal depositories with over $100,000 in deposits, and the total on July 31 was approximately $167,500,000.

CUMMINGS PRAISES STAND OF VALERA

Boston Irish Leader Wires Congratulations on "Fearless Answer to Premier"

President Matthew Cummings of the Friends of Irish Freedom of Greater Boston has sent a telegram to President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Republic, congratulating him on his uncompromising stand for freedom in the new Irish crisis.

The telegram follows:

"Eamon de Valera, Mansion House, Dublin:

"Friends of Irish Freedom of Greater Boston congratulate you on your splendid, fearless answer to Lloyd George. You have measured up to the best traditions of Irish leadership in your defence of the Irish nation.

Your action has united the Irish race the world over. Continue to stand firm for Ireland, a nation, and independence. We pledge you our hearty support.

"Matthew Cummings, president."

Commenting on the telegram, Mr. Cummings, long identified with Irish movements, said he believed it expressed the opinion of not only all Bostonians of Irish descent, but of lovers of liberty the world over.

He declared that believers in self-determination, regardless of their race or nationality, stood back of Ireland's demand for real independence and her rejection of sham liberty cleverly disguised.

COOLER AND BRIGHTER SKIES, SAYS PROPHET

Clear tonight and tomorrow, with bright skies and fresh westerly to northwesterly winds.

This is the official weather prediction for today, accompanied by the promise that the humidity, which has been ranging around 85 per cent., will humble considerably when the clear weather succeeds the cloudiness and rain of the early morning.

Boston was the hottest spot in New England today, and one of the warmest in the eastern section of the country, being only a comparatively few degrees below the 91 mark at Key West and Galveston.

The rain of the early morning totaled only .56 of an inch, but at Block Island nearly two inches were reported. There were heavy showers all over New England.

CONFIDENT DE VALERA WILL YET YIELD

Absence of Definite Rejection of Terms Basis for New Hope

London, Aug. 18.—(By Associated Press.)—Optimism with regard to the Irish situation was still being expressed today in British official circles, where it was indicated this attitude was considered justifiable in the lack of definite rejection of the government's terms by action of the Dail Eireann, although it was added that the reports from Dublin furnished a scant basis for such a view.

Eamon De Valera, it was stated, has not yet considered the British of the sincerity of his uncompromising statements of the last two days, the officials being reluctant to believe an offer which to them appeared so generous would be rejected outright.

The opinion obtains in official quarters, it was indicated, that the Irish leaders are still playing for time and increased prestige at home and abroad as the result of the formal opening of the Dail Eireann and its businesslike conduct of affairs, and to this there is no objection from London if it proves to mean the continuance of the negotiations.

As to the truce being broken and the warfare of a month ago resumed, officials stated that in their view there was not a chance of such a thing occurring.

Debate Resumed in Executive Session

Dublin, Aug. 18 (by the Associated Press).—Debate on the reply of the Irish Republican Parliament to the British government's offer of dominion status to Ireland was begun by the Parliament in executive session here today.

During public meetings held on Tuesday and Wednesday the members heard Eamon De Valera denounce the British offer and assert that Ireland would insist upon separation from England but, with the exception of the applause which greeted his utterances, there was little by which observers could estimate the attitude of the majority of the Parliament toward absolute rejection of the terms submitted by Prime Minister Lloyd George.

It was the general belief that the Dail Eireann would not break off the negotiations with Great Britain, and it was thought that some action might be taken to approach Ulster in an effort to secure co-operation in carrying on the conversations with London.

DE VALERA PLANS TO MAKE NEW PEACE PROPOSALS TO ULSTER

SINN FEIN DEBATES BRITISH TERMS IN SECRET SESSION

SACRIFICES FOR ULSTER

Mr. De Valera stated yesterday that he was ready to get in touch with the government of Northern Ireland, and that the Irish Republicans would "make sacrifices to Ulster that they would never think of making to England."

The nature of the "sacrifices" to Ulster that Mr. De Valera had in mind were not disclosed yesterday, but it was believed today that he would reveal to the members of the Parliament the steps he would advocate in bringing Ulster in accord with the Sinn Fein.

Should such an entente be reached, it was indicated yesterday, new proposals to Great Britain might be made, and there were observers who objectians of the Irish Republican movement could not entertain Great Britain's offer, and there were many who believed Mr. de Valera and his colleagues possibly intended to ask for new instructions.

Members of the Dail Eireann were astir early this morning, and wore a more serious look than ever when they gathered at the Mansion House for the day's meeting. Apparently, they realized the great responsibility they were carrying.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS.

The probability seems to be that the private meetings will extend over the week-end, with the next public meeting early next week.

Meanwhile, it is pointed out, the possibility exists that something may pass between the Mansion House in Dublin and Downing street in London, there being hope in some quarters that Mr. De Valera's speech of yesterday, with its pointed references to Ulster, will arouse Premier Lloyd George or the Belfast authorities to action.

If this does not come to pass the political forecasters take the view that the Dail will either send a considered reply to Lloyd George's letter, announce its decision to submit the question to a plebiscite or ask the government whether it will agree to give Ireland dominion home rule of the kind outlined in the recent letter of General Smuts.

expressed belief that the offer would take the form of a proposition to enter the commonwealth of British dominions as an independent state.

An agreement granting the prime minister's stipulations relative to naval control of the seas about Ireland and air bases on the island might be complementary to such an offer, in the opinion of men who had followed closely the work of the Parliament.

The possibility of calling a plebiscite by which the people of Southern Ireland might give their leaders a mandate governing their future activities in the negotiations remained today as one of the solutions of the situation. In the address delivered before the public sessions of the Parliament it appeared that stress was laid on the principle that the

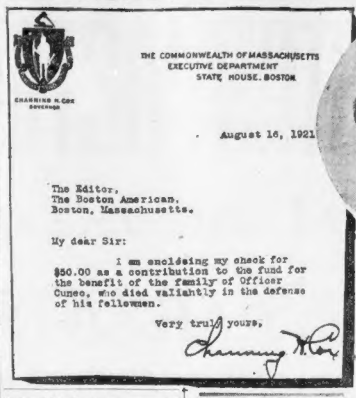
GOVERNOR'S INDORSEMENT OF CUNEO FUND



THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

CHANNING H. COX
Governor

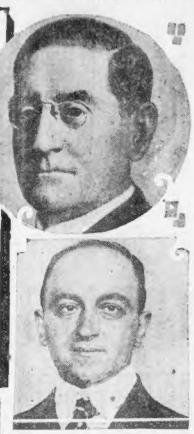
August 16, 1921

The Editor,
The Boston American,
Boston, Massachusetts.

My dear Sir:

I am enclosing my check for $50.00 as a contribution to the fund for the benefit of the family of Officer Cuneo, who died valiantly in the defense of his fellowmen.

Very truly yours,
Channing H. Cox



SUPPORT APPEAL

At top is letter of Governor Cox to the Editor of the Boston American announcing his contribution to the fund for the family of Patrolman Cuneo, who was killed while performing his duty, and praising the ogicer's heroism. Below, at left, James J. Phelan, Boston banker, who has responded to the appeal for the Cuneo family. Below, right, Allan R. Frederick. In circle above, Joseph H. O'Neil, banker. O'Neil and Frederick are members of the Fund committee.

COX AND WEEKS AID CUNEO FUND

he was forwarding a contribution. His telegram follows:

Editor Boston American:

Enthusiastically applaud your paper for efforts in behalf of family of Officer Cuneo, killed in line of duty. He was a real hero and went to his grave saving the life of more than one of his fellow citizens. Will gladly aid in fund being raised.

OTHER BACKERS.

Others who have indorsed the Boston American Cuneo Fund, to date, are:

Vice-President Calvin Coolidge.

United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Congressman Louis A. Frothingham.

Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Mayor Andrew J. Peters.

Postmaster Roland M. Baker.

Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, D. D., Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts.

Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis.

Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley.

Former Congressman Samuel L. Powers.

Few philanthropic movements have received the prompt and widespread support that has characterized The Cuneo fund from the hour of its inception by The Boston American on Saturday last.

Contributions are pouring in from every quarter. A poorly clad man walked into the counting room of the Boston American yesterday and shyly handed one of the advertising clerks a quarter, as his contribution. He said it was half of what he had. He refused to tell his name. There was a fund of feeling behind his little donation. It touched those who witnessed it.

EX-CONVICT CONTRIBUTES.

One of the many contributions received in today's mail was from a man who signed himself "Ex-Convict 567." He inclosed a new $2 bill. His letter read:

Dear Sir—Enclosed you will find a few "marks" for Officer Cuneo Fund. I am sorry this is not $200, instead of only $2. I have three little mouths to feed, so I know what this widow is up against with nine little ones to feed and clothe. She needs the "kale," God knows, and for God's sake, let us all help. This is deserving and we should all show our appreciation for such brave, fearless duty. Yours truly,

"EX-CONVICT 567."

A. J. Wilkinson & Co., hardware dealers, No. 184 Washington street, sent a check for $100.

James H. Devlin, secretary to Police Commissioner Curtis, contributed $25.

Having seven children of his own, he said today, he could sympathize with Mrs. Cuneo, who was left with nine.

Howard L. Hillman, advertising agent, No. 209 Washington street, sent a check for $10, with the following letter:

"Boston American:

"Gentlemen—The Boston American is to be thanked for rendering a public service in making clear the heroism and sacrifice of Officer Cuneo in the discharge of duty. This untimely death of a brave man should teach every citizen, man or woman, to honor and respect the men who are guardians of the law, and to do so while they are alive, not merely in times of tragedy. Sincerely yours,

"HOWARD L. HILLMAN."

BISHOP LAWRENCE'S LETTER.

Dr. Joseph Bacons of Brookline Hospital sent a check for $15 and heartily endorse the Boston American Fund. Former Congressman Samuel Powers contributed $10.

Bishop Lawrence sent the following communication to Police Commissioner Curtis from Bar Harbor, Me.

Aug. 16, 1921.

My Dear Commissioner:

"Will you please pass this check ($15) on to the proper persons for Officer Cuneo's family. The check is small, but it is a satisfaction to citizens to show appreciation of loyalty to duty. Yours very truly,

"WILLIAM LAWRENCE."

P. B. Parker of Belmont sent the following letter to James H. Higgins, publisher and treasurer of the Boston Herald, who forwarded the letter and enclosure to the Boston American:

Dear Sir:

I have been interested by your account of the life of the late Patrolman Cuneo and will ask you to be good enough to forward the enclosed $5 bill to the fund being raised for the benefit of his wife and family.

Yours very truly,

"Englishman."

"P. B. PARKER."

Thousands of circular appeals signed by the committee were today distributed by the Boston American. Mrs. Cuneo, who collapsed Wednesday at the grave of her husband, felt somewhat improved today, but is finding it hard to bear her grief.

CLAIMS NEIGHBOR TRIED TO HIT HER WITH HAMMER

Dennis Doyle, seventy-eight years old, of Flint's retreat, in Somerville Court today was found guilty of assault and battery on Mrs. Gladys Fuller who lives upstairs at the same address.

The woman claimed Doyle aimed a blow at her with a hammer.

Doyle denied the charge, but was found guilty and fined $10. Sentence was suspended to August 25.

SEIZES NORWOOD OFFICE, BARS INSPECTOR

Contractor Finally Subdued by Police, Who Regain Building

William J. Hunt, Norwood building contractor, forced his way into the office of Building Inspector Forrest M. Douglas in the Municipal Building of Norwood, drove Douglas out after threatening him with a can of ether, and barred himself in, announcing he had taken charge of the building department.

He was dispossessed only when police battered down the door, on which he was busily trying to change the lock. According to Douglas, Hunt made his way up a ladder and through a window.

In Dedham District Court today Hunt was held in $1,000 for a hearing August 25, and in the meantime will be placed under observation.

Hunt told Judge Sanborn that he was the logical man for building inspector and asked that the present incumbent be deposed in his favor.

Douglas had him in court some time ago for an infraction of the building laws, according to the police, and since that time Hunt is alleged to have cherished enmity.

He lives at No. 1 Manor avenue, Dedham.

FOUR WOMEN AND SEVEN MEN ARRESTED IN RUM RAID ON YACHT

95 CASES OF LIQUOR SEIZED

Cleveland, O., Aug. 18.—Captain William L. Curry, of Toronto, Canada, six other men and four women were captured by police early today in a thrilling raid on a large steam yacht declared by the police to be used by one of the strongest rings running liquor between the United States and Canada.

Ninety-five cases of various kinds of wines and liquors were found aboard the yacht, which was seized at Whiskey Island, west of the Cuyahoga river.

Captain Curry is believed to have been in command of the rum runner Transatlio, which was captured at Rocky River, near here, June 21, with a cargo of Scotch whiskey aboard, which was later divided by members of the police department at Lakewood, a Cleveland suburb, and caused the resignations of Chief F. S. Christensen, together with fourteen of his men.

The arrests and seizure followed a tip from Captain Hans Hansen of the United States coast guard that the yacht Venice with a merry party aboard was acting suspiciously in the outer harbor late last night.

A watch was set, but it was not until nearly daylight this morning that with all lights darkened she made for the wharf of the Great Lakes Dredging and Docking Company.

Two flying squadrons of police reached the dock just as men began to load the liquor hurriedly in a five ton truck, which was waiting. As the police arrived, lines were hurriedly cast off by the boat, but not before officers had leaped to the deck, entered the cabins and at the point of revolvers put those on board under arrest.

Charges of violating federal prohibition laws were placed against the men. The women will be held by the federal authorities pending an investigation.

The liquor seized today was valued at $15,000 by the yacht at $50,000.

HUNT RIVER BED FOR CLEW IN MYSTERY DEATH

Cleveland, Aug. 18.—Divers were to search the bottom of the Chagrin River today in an effort to discover the gun with which Edward J. Lynch, sixty-five years old, of St. Paul, Minn., former Internal Revenue Collector and political leader, was shot and killed as he sat in a summer cottage at Gates Mills, twenty miles east of here.

The body, with a bullet through the heart, was found floating down stream in the canoe.

A suicide theory advanced by officials was weakened by assertions of Lynch's daughter, Mrs. E. L. Shafer, who said her father had never owned a gun and had never been happier than just before he got into the canoe.

BURNS TO DIRECT WORK OF FEDERAL AGENTS

Washington, Aug. 18.—Appointment of William J. Burns of New York as director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice was announced today by Attorney General Daugherty.

Mr. Burns succeeds William J. Flynn.

"I have know Mr. Burns personally for thirty years and have watched him develop in his specialty," Mr. Daugherty said. "He is familiar with all of the departments of the government, is an intelligent and courageous man and at this time especially is considered to be as high class a man as could be secured to assume the important duties assigned him."

ATTEMPT TO FIRE LABORATORY IS THWARTED

Athlete Fights Off Firebugs and Prevents Destruction of Tufts Building

His path barred by two alleged incendiaries who had set fire to Tufts College laboratory in Medford, S. T. Coombs, a Northeastern College athlete, routed the pair, knocking one of them down with a punch to the jaw, and discovered the flames in time to prevent the destruction of the building.

Coombs, who resides near the Tufts College campus, was taking a short cut to his home, when he was met by him up and threatened him if he attempted to continue to walk in the direction of the college laboratory.

The athlete refused to be coerced and hit one of the pair a smashing blow on the chin which dropped him to the ground. The fallen man was helped to his feet by his accomplice and the pair ran from the scene, Coombs resuming his walk to his home.

He had hardly taken fifty paces when he noticed flames bursting from the rear of the laboratory, one of the largest of the college buildings. He sounded an alarm and apparatus reached the scene before the flames had gained much headway. The damage is estimated at $250. A large number of Professor Durkee's experiments were destroyed.

Workmen had just completed repairing the damage which followed a fire in the building last May.

YALE GRADUATE OF '73 KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Danbury, Ct., Aug. 18.—Benjamin Seeley, seventy-one years old, a retired business man of Waterbury and graduate of the Yale class of '73, died on the way to Danbury Hospital today, following an injury in an automobile accident.

The car in which he was riding with his wife and Mrs. Benjamin R. Kelsey No. 22 Johnson street, skidded on the State highway near Bethel and overturned when the front wheel struck a pole.

OBENCHAIN HAS NEW EVIDENCE IN SLAYING

Husband Says He Will Produce Third Person Who Will Prove Free Suspects

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 18.—Investigators for the prosecution of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur J. Burch, jointly indicted in connection with the slaying August 5 of J. Belton Kennedy, broker, were viewing with interest today the published statement of Ralph H. Obenchain, divorced husband of the young woman defendant, that he had uncovered evidence that "absolutely would fail another man within five days and result in the freeing of both prisoners."

This declined to comment, but indicated there were continuing with their work. It is understood revolves around the past relations of the two principals in the case, and their connection with the dead man, and the past relations of Kennedy and Mrs. Obenchain.

The activity of the defence was further manifested late yesterday, it was learned, when a new witness for Mrs. Obenchain arrived here from Honolulu, in answer to a subpoegram from Mrs. Obenchain.

The woman is Mrs. Frank Desmond, Mrs. Obenchain declared, who, it is said, was with her up to a few days before the slaying of the broker. It was intimated by counsel that she might throw light on the prisoner's supposed love affair with Kennedy.

Obenchain on the first battle in the Los Angeles courts when the prosecution, armed with a court order seized the mystery trunk consigned to Obenchain.

The climax of the struggle for the trunk, said to contain love letters and other evidence in the romance between Madalynne and Kennedy, was a spectacular one staged in the lobby of the fashionable Alexandria Hotel.

Moving picture stars looked on in amazement as the State's deputies displayed some real "action."

Until midnight Tuesday night, Obenchain had been attempting to secure possession of the trunk. It was made a point of mystery about its contents. It was known, however, that the girl's father had shipped Obenchain's initials and shipped from San Francisco.

Coombs, who resides near the Tufts College campus, was taking a short cut to his home, when two men held him up and threatened him if he attempted to continue to walk in the direction of the college laboratory.

The athlete refused to be coerced and hit one of the pair a smashing blow on the chin which dropped him to the ground. The fallen man was helped to his feet by his accomplice and the pair ran from the scene, Coombs resuming his walk to his home.

U. S. GOOD PLACE TO DODGE, SAYS BERNARD SHAW

Debs in Jail, Ku Klux Busy and All That—It's Too Much

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 18.—George Bernard Shaw's idea of the United States is that it is a good place to stay away from.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation, wrote to the Irish master satirist, whether he intended coming to these shores. Here is what Shaw wrote in reply:

"I have no intention of going to prison with Debs or taking my wife to Texas, where the Ku Klux Klan snatches white women from out of their beds, tars and feathers them.

"If I were dependent upon matrimony for a reputation, which happily I am not, I could go to Ireland. It is a less dangerous place, but when the voyage is shorter and much cheaper.

"You are right in your impression that a number of persons are trying me to come to the United States. But why on earth do they call them my friends?"

OHIO TO AID DIRIGIBLE IN FLIGHT TO AMERICA

Evidence that the dirigible R-2-2, purchased by the Navy Department from Great Britain, is about to start its flight from England to Lakehurst, N. J., was contained in orders received at the Boston Navy Yard today.

The orders instructed Captain F. L. Chadwick of the battleship Ohio to proceed to a position off Labrador, arriving at the designated point at midnight, August 27, there to act as a state boat, during the dirigible flight.

The Ohio, which will sail Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, is equipped with powerful radio, and will carry several experts from the weather bureau at Washington.

CONCORD NURSE WEDS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Coughlin, of Concord Junction, are surprised to learn of her marriage in Constantinople to John Peterson of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Peterson was a nurse during the war, and saw long service in France. For two and one-half years she has been doing service with the the Near East Relief. Just before returning home she had to flee for her life from a village in Asia that was seized by the Turks. Her husband was a member of the Near East Relief Unit.

Mother Deserves Disarming Parley Seat, Woman Lawyer Says

Mrs. M. Frances Brady, Official of Middlesex County, Scores Representative Robertson for Saying Women Not Fit to Attend Conference.

By HAZEL CANNING.

Maybe Representative Alice Robertson takes great glee in blacking the eyes of all her sisters throughout the country, but there is one woman in Boston who doesn't say amen.

Not by a long shot. Alice Robertson of Oklahoma has said, in effect, that there wasn't a woman in the country fit to sit on the disarmament conference.

Said it flat and final. Gave her reasons. Made one specific. Laughed humanly pretentious to a seat on the disarmament board to scorn; to most contemptuous scorn.

And, in answer to the lady from Oklahoma, arrises a stout adversary in Boston. Not long and say little, show me a woman who has high social standing and deep knowledge of international conditions, to go with it; show me a woman who can speak several languages fluently; in short, show me a woman who is qualified and I'll name her. But there isn't such a woman in the country."

We can't agree with Representative Robertson," says Mrs. Frances District-Attorney Brady. The Representative says there can't be such woman. I say there are several such women, in each city of the country. But what I say is that it would be a fitting member of the disarmament board. First of all, she needs to have a shrewd head. She might well be a lawyer. The law trains a head to look on both sides of a question.

"And right as fair. You can count hundreds of women who fill the bill in our country. Now Representative Robertson's remark that social position as a necessary factor. I should say this was about as unnecessary a quality for a woman who is considered for such a job. I would substitute instead the keenness of absolute honesty, the ability to hold and inspire confidence, the high virtue of fair.

MOTHER DESERVES PLACE.

"And, before I go any further, I would like to emphasize, with religious fervor, the importance and fitness of at least one woman sitting on the board. When every man that ever may be sent to war is thrown into the world by the agony and high sacrifice of some woman, who, in the dread moment, put the baby of life before her own, if need be, I think it is fitting that woman, the giver of life in the first place, deserves at least one voice in a conference which has, for its object, the preserving of these lives, so precious to the mothers of the world.

"This is the reason why I would say, if the other qualities could be found alike, that a woman who is a mother would be the best woman of all.

"Motherhood broadens a woman. Life is more sacred, and the tears and sufferings of the young of our race are more to the woman who has borne a son than to the childless woman, in my opinion. But at any rate, by virtue of her inherent motherhood, she knows how any one can oppose a place or a woman on that board.

"Other qualities mentioned by Representative Robertson, in my estimation, are not qualities for the woman to have, but by no means necessary qualities.

LANGUAGES NO TEST.

"The Representative cites languages —she thinks the woman board member should be able to speak several fluently. If this were a test of ability, then I would wager that the most qualified to sit on the board would be others left out.

"Take a company of educated men, and the same number of educated women, and the average of women speaking more tongues than their own would rise much higher than the men. For, at school, as we all know, women run to languages, while men students elect the more practical subjects.

"When the whole question is sifted, we can easily sum up the qualifications for a woman member of the disarmament conference. She should be level headed, shrewd, kindly, capable of looking at both sides of a question, and withholding her opinion till she gets all the facts. She should be scrupulously honest; she should inspire confidence and trust. And, if possible, she should be a mother.

"To all this, she adds knowledge of an extra language or two, it were well. And these qualifications are possessed by several notable women, in almost every city of the country.

"You indeed, in view of all that women have at stake when war threatens, I would say it were most undemocratic, even most inhuman, not to allow woman, who gives life in the first place, to have a little say, later on, about how that life shall be jeopardized."

DORCHESTER K. OF C. PLANS HARBOR SAIL

Dorchester Lower Mills Council, Knights of Columbus, will have an all-day harbor sail and festival and sport carnival on Rainsford Island Sunday. J. Paul Canty is head of the committee in charge, which includes Michael J. Hannigan, Michael Brougal, Bernard J. Conley, Michael J. Farrell and Anthony Broban.

MRS. M. FRANCES BRADY
(Photo by Modern Studio.)

Mrs. Brady, who is Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County, disagrees with Representative Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, who says that women are not fit for a place at the coming disarmament conference. Women are quite capable of holding down a seat at the parley, and the place should go to a mother, Mrs. Brady answers.

122 KILLINGS IN FOUR CITIES BY MURDER GANG

High street, Cambridge, and until a short time prior to the shooting proprietor of a tailor shop in the Italian section of Belmont, shot and killed Dominick Falconi, owner of a small restaurant in the Mt. Auburn section of Watertown.

MAFIA DEATH SEAL.

According to the story told by Aroni to the police following his arrest, he had been marked to die by the Camorra Society. The death seal, a semi-circular cut on one cheek, had been placed upon him, he said. This is called the "sfregio" and runs from the ear to the corner of the mouth.

After receiving that seal, Aroni declared, he knew he was marked for speedy murder. He said he took a shotgun, loaded with buckshot and waited until Falcone passed the Italienne Republican Club and fired a charge of buckshot into the latter's body.

Aroni is now awaiting trial for murder. Three other men have been arrested in connection with the affair.

Cleviasco De Pietro of Grant avenue, Belmont, was another victim of the feud in that locality. He was stabbed in the face and slashed with the "sfregio."

Vincenzo Tetani of Watertown was left dead and John Forgno unconscious and bleeding from a number of stab wounds, following a vendetta fight in the centre of the Italian quarter of Watertown.

$500,000 DEFENCE FUND.

Revelations made by Fontana in New York and the two other prisoners who are alleged to have confessed, disclose the fact that the gangs have a "defence fund" of more than $500,000 for the benefit of those members arrested charged with murder.

The gangs are said to be organized into groups of fifteen, all reporting to a central headquarters, which in turn reports to the main or chief headquarters in Paterno.

The ramifications of the organization are declared to extend to virtually every large city in the United States where Italians have settled in any number.

It is declared by those who are in a position to know that the present American organization is virtually the same as the Mafia which was stamped out in New Orleans many years ago, following a number of unavenged killings which terrorized the police of that city.

CAMBRIDGE GIRL HURT AT NANTASKET BEACH

Christine L. Haskell of No. 176 Larch road, Cambridge, is today at Shirgis Hospital, Allerton, as a result of injuries sustained when she was struck by a motor car at Nantasket Beach. The machine was driven by Henry S. Albiani of No. 147 Train street, Dorchester, who is held by police on a charge of operating an automobile in such a manner as to endanger the lives of the public.

possibility that a mistake had been made, so we did not insist.

"I asked the police to permit us to take Dias to my home so that Gertrude could see him and tell us whether he was one of the gang. I gave my promise that no harm would come to him if he was NOT the man we suspected him to be. But, of course the authorities would not listen to such a plan."

And the old man's face grew suddenly contorted with fierce rage and grief.

"The damned scoundrel—hanging is too good for such men as he and his pals," he exclaimed.

Both Dias and Gomes have been under arrest before. Eight months ago they were caught and convicted of the larceny of an automobile. Both were placed on probation, which Gomes violated later, being sent to the House of Correction for four months.

$1,500,000 TO WELLESLEY AND TECH

F. A. Foster Makes Big Bequests to Colleges in Will Filed in Probate Court

Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Wesley College were made beneficiaries to the extent of $1,000,000 and $500,000, respectively, through the will of the late Francis Apleton Foster of Weston, filed in the East Cambridge Probate Court today.

The will disposes of an estate running into the millions, of which no valuation was given, the principal beneficiary being Ruth Sprague of New York, nephew of the testator and executor of the estate.

According to the will Sprague is to become head of the Foster family, and in addition to a gift of $200,000 outright was left all the testator's holdings and stock in the F. A. Foster & Co. Inc., also the Foster Spring Company of Fall River. He was also named executor of Foster's estate.

The sum of $1,000 each was bequeathed to Utica, Normal and Industrial Institute, Utica, Miss., Laurinburg, Normal and Industrial Institute, Laurinburg, N. C., Fall River Boys' Club and Bunker Hill Boys' Club of Charlestown.

The Weston Public Library receives $2,500, and $12,000 is to be divided among the clerks of the F. A. Foster & Co., Inc., of Boston, New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, who had served over three years.

The testator's sister, Caroline H. F. Sprague of Weston, was given $250,000, and there were a number of private bequests of $50,000 to $100,000 each.

PEGGY JOYCE NOW ON WAY TO PARIS

New York, Aug. 18.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, beautiful Peggy, whose unruly heart has caused much trouble for herself and others, has eluded the detectives assigned by her millionaire husband, and has sailed for France.

While three dark-browed men, said to have been employed by her millionaire husband, T. Stanley Joyce, watched grimly outside her apartment in the Park avenue, Peggy went away.

Her going was not heralded by a fanfare of trumpets or by the efforts of a silver cornet band to render "Alabam'." On the contrary, the resourceful beauty eased herself out of her apartment in the dark of night, but until five days after she had sailed on the Olympic that the doughty detectives discovered they had been foiled.

STEAMSHIP WEST KEENE SIGHTS MYSTERY SHIP

Deck officers aoff the American steamship West Keene, in today from Pacific ports reported that they had been greatly puzzled by a mysterious light observed on the night of July 17, twenty-four miles off Cape Falco Light, on the southern tip of Lower California.

Captain Harold W. Dowling said the light resembled a flight-house beam and hovered over the waters at regular intervals of 18 seconds. No lightship nor other marine light is known to be stationed in that part of the world.

It was under observation from the bridge of the West Keene for three hours and flashed regularly except for a forty-five minute interval. Many conjectures were made on board and many of the officers believe that the light was a signal from some vessel carrying contraband into Mexico to confederates on shore.

BOGUS MAGAZINE SOLICITOR GUILTY

George C. Wagner of Depew, N. Y., alleged by the police to have taken in considerable sums of money by falsely representing himself as a salesman of a magazine, today in Roxbury court was found guilty of larceny. He was held in $1,000 until next Thursday for sentence, after he admitted he had been accepting "initial payments" which he accepted, but declared he had gotten only $150 in this way and was ready to make restitution. He has a wife and three children in Depew.

CRUISER CHATTANOOGA TO RETURN TO HUB YARD

The cruiser Chattanooga, now at Portsmouth, N. H., will return shortly to the Boston Navy Yard for repairs, according to an announcement at Washington today.

The Chattanooga was ordered from Charlestown to Portsmouth because of a fire extinguisher forbidding copper bottomed ships to berth within 500 feet of wooden piers.

CHELSEA MAN FINED ON TWO AUTO CHARGES

John Hernatowes of Medford street, Chelsea, was fined $50 in court today, was found guilty of two violations of the automobile laws. For having only one license he was fined $10 and for driving with only one headlight on, he was given two months.

Captain Harold W. Dowling said the light resembled a flight-house beam and hovered over the waters at regular intervals of 18 seconds. No lightship nor other marine light is known to be stationed in that part of the world.

FUNERAL OF WIFE OF ADMIRAL WADLEIGH

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Elizabeth Wadleigh, wife of Rear Admiral George H. Wadleigh, United States Navy, were conducted today at No. 601 Massachusetts avenue, Lexington. Rev. John Mills Wilson, minister of the Lexington First Parish officiated. Interment in Belfield. The body was taken to Dover, N. H., for burial.

"American Venus" Is Bride of Hauptmann Hugo Jaeger of Kissingen

Berlin, Aug. 5—Miss Ray Beveridge, for many years known in New York as "The American Venus" and who served with the German Red Cross during the war, has become the bride of a former German army captain, Hauptmann Hugo Jaeger of Kissingen, according to a dispatch from that town today.

For her services to the Vaterland during the war Miss Beveridge has been awarded the honorary citizenship of Kissingen.

As a nurse with the German Red Cross Miss Beveridge worked for months in the German hospitals in Belgium and Northern France, where she was assigned to duty at one of the largest of the military hospitals in Belgium.

Later as a self-appointed spokesman for the German cause she visited the battle areas in Flanders, lectured and wrote many articles in behalf of German administration in the occupied territories.

After the war, when the French and American troops entered the occupied territory Miss Beveridge addressed the propaganda circulated through the allied countries in behalf of Germany and also took an active part in the circulation of newspaper reports that Negro troops were being used by the French in the occupied region.

This was subsequently denied by the French government and American official investigators.

MOSES SAYS SENATE IS "SICK" OF DRY DICTATION

York Beach, Me., Aug. 18.—"The United States Senate can be "pushed just so far," according to Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, a visitor here. Senator Moses said that the Senate was "sick and tired" of anti-saloon dictation, which he declared explained the unprecedentedly large vote cast against the so-called Anti-Beer Bill.

MISS CONNERY'S VIVID STORY OF KERRY PIKE

White Cross Worker's Account of Slaughter Related by Connolly

TORTURED IRELAND

By JAMES B. CONNOLLY
Famous New England Author and Journalist.

One of the happenings over there was Kerry Pike again. I heard of it passing through, but if the traveler through Ireland stopped to look up every terrible thing he heard about he would be making long stops all along his route, besides keeping two or three stenographers busy merely recording the facts — something the British government would allow no traveler in Ireland to do.

There was an office in Dublin which I frequented, and into this office came one day a White Cross worker, Mrs. Margaret Connery. She was just from a trip through the martial law area and, as it happened, she had stopped to look into the Kerry Pike affair. She started to tell about it. Before she had been going a minute the expert stenographer, Mr. Dieu, was taking her down. Here is her account of Kerry Pike as she told it that May morning at the rate of 200 words a minute. — J. B. C.

Six boys belonged to a district called Kerry Pike, about three miles outside of Cork City. They were on the run for a considerable time." All I should say were under 25, some would have been 19 or 20.

On this day, at 2 o'clock in the morning, they were surrounded in a shed where they were sleeping. And the next thing the people of Cork knew the bodies were brought in in a lorry to the barracks in Cork. That was all I knew when I went to Cork.

TEN OR TWELVE WOUNDS

I went to the doctor who examined the bodies and I said to him: "I have heard terrible rumors about this Kerry Pike case and I want to get the truth. To begin with, have you any experience as an army surgeon with all kinds of wounds?"

"Yes, I was through the war."

"Could you tell me how these boys died? If they died quickly and how many wounds were in each of the bodies?"

"They were wounded all over and in every direction. There would be at least ten or twelve wounds in each body."

"Were these all separate wounds?"

"No, they would be exit and entrance wounds. We count these double."

I said: "The father of the Deasy boy told me that the upper portion of the boy's head and his jaw were blown away. How would you account for that?"

"He was fired at from behind. The entrance wound was in the back of the head."

In another case he said the boy was wounded in front, in the forehead. It was very close range, because the skin was singed. They were wounded in the sides, legs, arms, neck, throat, back and front of the head. They were also mutilated and disfigured. They were unrecognizable.

SLAIN LIKE BEASTS.

I said: "Am I correct in the conclusion that those boys were surrounded on every side?"

"Yes, they were surrounded on every side."

"They were murdered like wild beasts."

"I can't go that far with you."

I said: "They were shot at on every side. Surely they were murdered."

"Yes, they could have been arrested."

I said: "I heard from various people in Cork, including the Bishop of Cork, that they were unarmed, defenceless." He said: "I can't say that. But that is the general opinion."

"Could you tell me if they died quickly?"

"People getting so many wounds as that would be likely to die quickly."

I said: "The general feeling is they didn't die quickly; they died after prolonged agony."

Again he said: "I can't commit myself about it. I can only tell you they were wounded all over."

"Would you think they were wounded lying face downward?"

"I should think so. Some wounds in the back would suggest that that particular body was lying prostrate."

HORRIBLY MUTILATED.

I said: "One body the stomach was torn away, the internal organs were protruding. How would you explain that?"

He said: "The bullets fired at very close range from high-powered rifles and revolvers tore and destroyed the flesh as they went through."

They were also wounded in the throat, chest and shoulders, sides of the arms and legs. So much for the doctor.

Continued Tomorrow.

CHINA ENTHUSIASTIC FOR U. S. CONFERENCE

Peking, Aug. 17—(By the Associated Press)—China has formally replied with a cordial acceptance to the invitation to attend the Washington Disarmament and Far Eastern Conference it was announced today.

President Harding's sincerity in calling the conference, manifested in the absence of limitation of the subjects which may be discussed, says the reply, is appreciated.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

TWO little frocks sketched above present the typical early Autumn silhouette, the very nearly straight one with waistline inclined to be low. At the left, white Canton crepe is heavily embroidered in black silk thread. This model opposes the mode quite decidedly in the shortness of its sleeves, as here and there the shortness of frocks will, but is entirely obedient in the length of its back panel. The hat of the season is turning up with all manner of feathers, and this one, of black panne velvet, chooses to turn up across the front, assisted by black ostrich fringe.

BLACK Canton crepe with touches of lemon yellow make another model with its slashed sleeves ending in a tassel at each wrist and its bodice ending in several tassels on one side. Various forms of this graceful mediaeval sleeve will appear in Paris frocks, designed for both evening and daytime wear.

VETERANS 'HIKE' FOR FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

A new pilgrimage in search of the fountain of youth is to be undertaken in Florida by two former service men, disabled in France in the World War.

The two modern Ponce de Leons are John J. Boyle, of No. 34 Tudor street, Chelsea, and Napoleon Currier, of No. 18 Walden street, North Cambridge.

Boyle was gassed while serving with the Fifth Regiment of Marines just prior to the armistice. His lungs are still affected and his nervous system is in bade shape.

Currier was wounded when a gun burst on the Minnesota off the Irish coast during the war, and the sight of his right eye is impaired.

Both men called upon Mayor Peters today to ask for letters of introduction along their route. The mayor's secretary, George Canty, intimated the request would be granted.

They will start tomorrow morning on a hike to Orlando, Fla., which is not far from the site of the fabled fountain of youth rumors of which took the Spanish conqueror to Florida.

They expect to tramp eight or ten hours a day, and hope to make the entire trip in about 45 days, and to obtain work in one of the Winter season hotels in Florida.

As a reserve fund they are carrying $25 with them, but do not intend to spend that except in case of emergency. Their ideas is to work their way as they go.

"We are seeking health and strength again" they say explaining the reason for their hike.

DEMAND ANSELL BE DISBARRED BY COURTS

House Report Blames Former Advocate-General of Army for Bergdoll Escape

By Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Samuel Tilden Ansell, former Acting Judge Advocate-General of the Army; Colonel John F. Hunt and Colonel C. C. Cresson were charged with conspiracy in connection with the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the draft evader, in a report signed by three of the five members of a special investigating committee, filed today in the House.

Characterizing Ansell as "the master mind" in the plan by which Bergdoll was released from a military prison under guard to dig up a "pot of gold," the report recommended that he be disbarred from practising in the courts of the nation "whose safety and integrity he has placed gold."

A minority report filed at the same time held, however, that there was no testimony to support the charge that Ansell, whose efforts as counsel the prisoner was released, "conspired to effect his escape," or that his motive was improper.

The majority report held that Colonel Hunt, commandant of the barracks at Governor's Island, was directly responsible for Bergdoll's escape through his failure to handcuff him or provide an adequate guard.

The minority, after declaring that no officer of the army knowingly participated in the conspiracy, found "grave dereliction of duty on the part of Hunt."

As a basis for its criticism of Colonel Cresson, the majority report said that "as ugly as are the many phases of the whole matter, none is more defendable than the conduct of Colonel Cresson in his pretence of prosecution of Colonel Hunt," tried by court-martial in connection with the Bergdoll scandal. No reference to Cresson was made by the minority.

Major Bruce F. Campbell, accused by Bergdoll's mother of having accepted $5,000 to help to obtain the freedom for the prisoner, was exonerated by the majority. The minority reported that there was no evidence that Campbell was in any way connected with the escape, but dissented the proper military authorities would "institute such investigations as may be necessary to the end that Campbell may be exonerated, if not found guilty."

OUTING TO TUBERCULAR CHILDREN AT CAMP

Sixty happy youngsters left downtown Boston at 10 o'clock today in automobiles for a picnic at Prendergast Camp, at Mattapan, given by the Boston Tuberculosis Association.

The children, in all of whom incipient signs of tuberculosis have been discovered, are the association's guests at the opening of a drive for funds to transform Prendergast Camp, at present a home for convalescent adult victims of the disease, into a place where children may be given preventive measures.

FLAMES SPREAD NEW TERROR IN RUSSIA

3,500,000 Face Death in Isolated District South of Ural Mountains

London, Aug. 18.—Gigantic fires, which are devastating forests, towns and villages, have added new terrors to the famine and pestilence in Russia, according to a Riga despatch to the Daily Express.

Cholera and famine are sweeping the Soviet republic of Kirgisian in Turkestan, southeast of the Ural Mountains, and 3,500,000 persons are threatened with death by starvation or pestilence before help can reach the isolated district.

The entire population of this huge area on the Kirghiz Steppe is in a critical plight, living upon grasshoppers and field rodents.

Vienna, Aug. 18.—Hordes of famished Russians are sweeping into Ukraine and pogroms are reported from the district of Odessa. The hunger-maddened refugees blame the Jews for their plight and many Jews are said to have been killed in the wild flight of the fugitives.

At Rovno, the "gateway" to Ukraine, hospitals and feeding stations have been erected by the American and the British Y. M. C. A. Swarms of starving Russians, many of them sick, arrive daily, clamoring for food, clothing and medical attention.

The saddest phase of the whole situation is the great number of children stricken. They are so ravenous they cannot wait for spoons when soup is given, but dip their hands into the plates and drink from their dirty little palms.

By Associated Press.

Riga, Latvia, Aug. 18.—Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet envoy in the Russian famine relief negotiations here with Walter Lyman Brown of the American Relief administration, has gone to "the limit" in making concessions to meet the demands of the American organization as to control of the relief work, says the newspaper Novy Put, the Bolshevik organ here.

M. Litvinoff has already exceeded his instructions, the newspaper states, and in the event of an unsatisfactory reply to Mr. Brown's ultimatum in the dispute, "the negotiations can be considered as without result," it declares.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS OF GREATER BOSTON

Artists Hold Bal Masque in Newport Tonight

By BETTY ALDEN.

An unusually distinctive gathering from Newport's Summer residents de luxe is expected tonight at the Artists' Bal Masque which takes place at the Casino. Many of the Newporters who favor the famous watering-place with their presence only for the torrid season, have found the unique invitations issued by the Newport Art Association quite irresistible. The Casino this evening will be the scene of considerable gayety, for the artists' ball, an annual event, promises to be a highly welcome diversion for those members of the Summer contingent who are fond of dancing and upon whom an excess of charity entertainments and tournaments has begun to pall. Speaking of the Bal Masque, reminds me of the distinctly novel poster which the artist, Howard Hilder, made to announce the coming costume dance. The so-called poster, which was placed some time ago in the lobby of the Casino, attracted no little attention among the society habitues of the Casino, for it was a real oil painting, properly framed, the subject being a Japanese woman with a most enticing glance in her Oriental eyes.

Among the Bostonians at Southampton, L. I., who are attending the invitation tennis tournaments being played on the courts of the Meadow Club, are Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Kly Chambers. The young people are visiting Mr. Chambers' parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. Flewellen Chambers, of N. Y., and Southampton, and will remain at the Long Island resort for the month of August. The wedding of the former Mary Elizabeth Billard and young Chambers, which was solemnized last April in the First Baptist Church, Commonwealth avenue, was one of the season's most important nuptial affairs. A large reception was held at the Beacon street home of Mrs. Isaac William Chuck, mother of the bride. The latter is a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club and took an active part in the club's dramatic show, "Saint," presented a year ago. Mr. Chambers has graduated from Harvard College, but is still at Law School, and next Winter the young couple will live in Cambridge, where Mr. Chambers will finish his course.

An engagement announcement of interest to Bostonians is that of Miss Aubrey Townsend Sherman, daughter of Arthur Outram Sherman of Rye, N. Y., to John Lawrence Bigelow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bigelow of Ann Harbor, Mich., formerly of Boston. The prospective groom is a graduate of Harvard, class of '16, and of the Harvard Law School. While at Harvard Mr. Bigelow played on the football team and during the war served as an ensign in the naval overseas transport service. No date has been set for the wedding.

LAST HOPE FOR 'MEDICAL' BEER VANISHES

Washington, Aug. 18.—Senate and House conferees reached an agreement late last night on the Campbell-Willis "Anti-Beer" bill. It was announced that the House conferees had accepted all the Senate amendments to the bill, except that offered by Senator Stanley, which would have made the invasion of the home and the molestations of citizens upon the highways by prohibition agents without warrants a penal offense.

The House objected to the amendment on the ground that it would be a protection to bootleggers and upon their insistence the Senate conferees, it was learned, accepted the House amendment limiting the provisions to the search of the homes without search warrants.

The amendments to which the House agreed include one which would prohibit the importation of wine except for medicinal or sacramental purposes and another giving the government power to change the formulas of a patent medicine when it is found that it is being used for beverage purposes.

NAVY YARD PROBE GOES TO WEEKS

Findings and recommendations of the naval board of inquiry, which has for six weeks been investigating charges of discrimination against ex-service men in the Boston Navy Yard, will be in the hands of Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves Saturday morning, He will immediately submit them, with his recommendations, to the Secretary of the Navy.

During the hearings veterans' organizations produced evidence to show that men with war service records had been displaced by non-veterans and non-citizens.

"HOOTCH" FOUND IN INFANT'S CARRIAGE

Necessity is the mother of invention, and prohibition, like politics and poverty, makes strange bedfellows.

Six-months-old Rachael Lewis of No. 145 Chambers street, was discovered sleeping in the same carriage with a quart of moonshine. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Lewis, pleaded not guilty in court to selling liquor and her case was continued to August 24.

Up in Burlington, Vt., an automobile was found to have a hollow curb, in which were 75 quarts of Canadian whiskey.

$1,150 WORTH OF ALCOHOL IS SEIZED

Captain Charles T. Reardon of police headquarters, with the assistance of Sergeant William MacDonald of the East Dedham street station and Sergeant Hines and Patrolman Gales of the Fields Corner station, intercepted an automobile on Columbia road, near Massachusetts avenue, seized 168 gallons of alcohol valued at $1,150, and arrested two men who are believed to be bootleggers, as suspicious persons. The machine bore a Massachusetts license plate No. 219,335 and inside the car the police found a New York license No. 1x1312.

HONOR MAN RESPONSIBLE FOR NAMING OF AMERICA

Paris, Aug. 18.—The man responsible for the naming of the Western Continent America, was honored by the American Legion today.

Delegates of the American Legion, who are touring the battlefields of France as the guests of the French government, were received at 6 p. m. by municipal officials and escorted to the former home of the monk, Waldseemuller, where a memorial tablet was dedicated.

It was Father Muller who suggested the American continent be named after the explorer, Americus Vespucius or Vespucci as the name is sometimes spelled.

LACK OF ALCOHOL CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH

Moner, Mo., Aug. 18.—Prohibition is said to be responsible for the death of Reen Hoch, two years old, son of Gustave and Thelma Hoch, who died from acid poisoning. Dr. R. Carlos Copeland told the board of health he could have saved the child's life if he had been able to obtain alcohol.

JOHN ENDICOTT PEABODY IS DEAD IN BROOKLINE

John Endicott Peabody of Brookline, member of a famous New England family and prominent in many clubs and art societies, is dead at his home in Brookline at the age of sixty-eight years. He was direct descendant in the eighth generation of Lieutenant Francis Peabody of England, who arrived in this country in 1635 on the ship Planter and settled in Ipswich, afterwards removing to Topsfield. The deceased for many years was a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. of London, England.

Vose Small Grand

A development of piano perfection by the House of Vose, whose product has enjoyed a national reputation for super quality for nearly three quarters of a century—a fitting instrument for the glorious Vose tone.

This Small Grand makes an artistic appeal to those who understand and appreciate perfection. Its wondrous volume of Vose tone is impressive — one would hardly expect greater volume, even in the larger Grand.

This model is for the music or living room of limited floor space. It gives the artistic touch to the home.....TERMS

Wakefield Woman Who Lost $75 Now Believes in Real Banks for Safety

Mrs. Edwin S. Hamblen, who resides on the borders of Crystal Lake, near the Wakefield-Stoneham boundary line, is now an honest to goodness advocate of real substantial banks, the kind where you receive a deposit book when you leave your hard-earned savings.

Several days ago she had $75.

Now she hasn't. Only the upturned earth is there to show that several days ago she buried for "safe keeping" on the southerly side of Crystal Lake her modest "fortune."

Someone, who has evidently played before that grand old game of "digging for gold," while the kiddies and menfolk looked on and "see-heed," has adopted it for a real vocation and unearthed the woman's buried treasure.

Anyway it's gone and the Wakefield and Stoneham police have assigned their best sleuths to recover the buried treasure and last, but not least, apprehend the one who has "outkibbled" Captain Kidd himself.

Believe in real banks?

Indeed she does!

GREEK ARMY MENACES TURKISH REBEL CAPITAL

Athens, Aug. 17.—The advance guard of the Greek army on the Anatolin battlefront is only 95 miles from Angora, the capital of the Turkish Nationalists, according to advices from Greek headquarters at Smyrna. The Turks are still falling back, pursued by the Greeks.

It has been established by aerial reconnaissances that the Turks have only about 50,000 men and 90 guns, the dispatches add.

Ancient Greek Temple Ruins Unearthed At Sikyon

By Associated Press

Athens, Aug. 18.—Ruins of a great temple have been found at Sikyon, a city on the Southern shore of the Gulf of Corinth, which in the fourth century before the Christian era was one of the principal cities of Greece.

The foundations and pillars would seem to indicate that the temple was built by the Dorians, who captured the town from the Aegaean Ionians, and held it for several centuries.

Experts declare the temple was sacred to the worship of Artemis, sister of Apollo and goddess of the chase in the ancient Greek mythology.

HUGHES FACES NEWS PROBLEM ON DISARMING

World Must Get Truth of Doings at Big Parley, Hapgood Asserts

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Staff Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Washington thought and gossip centres more just now on the November disarmament conference than on anything else. Other matters, such as the spurt of the baseball team, the girls' bathing costume prizes at the beach, the difficulties of concocting popular taxes, the dye fight, the tariff, the beer decision, the strategic victory of the stand-patters over the progressives in the beer bill, all of these things help to make up the sum complex, but the conference leads.

As it does not begin for nearly three months it will hold the centre of the stage altogether for a long time, counting both the preliminary thinking and the event itself.

How are all these weighty doings to reach a hundred and ten million Americans, and four hundred million Chinese, or such fraction of same as worry about public affairs?

What facilities for getting more or less the whole truth are to be offered to the anxious millions of the British Empire, of France, Italy and Japan?

Germany and other countries that do not take part will nevertheless be interested. What kind of information are they to receive?

HUGHES A SUCCESS.

Mr. Hughes, up to the present, has been handling his own publicity and handling it with amazing success. You never can tell in advance about these Americans in new offices. When Hughes came to Washington everybody thought he would be a complete failure at the great publicity game.

He has earned his position most legitimately. As far as I know there has never, even in Roosevelt's time, been anything quite to equal the regular newspaper conferences of Messrs. Harding, Hughes and Hoover as devices for keeping the correspondents informed about the questions of the day.

The other members of the Cabinet confine themselves in general to giving out the news of their own departments, without any special discussion of principles. To this statement an exception can be made in the case of Mr. Daugherty, who makes amusing and anecdotic, but not too serious, comments on various persons and occurrences.

The November conference offers a special problem to Mr. Hughes. He will not have time to handle the routine news himself, and, moreover, he could not prudently talk every day to several hundred correspondents of all nations as he now talks to two or three dozen men whom he knows.

RIGHT MAN NEEDED.

If he could find just the right man to work under him in the whole publicity aspect of the conference, a decided advantage would be gained. If such a man is not appointed the work will drift into the hands of the State Department bureaucracy, without bright promises of a satisfactory result.

In addition to the actual delivery of the news and explanations there is the problem of arranging a comfortable and interesting life for from two to three hunded foreign correspondents. The American correspondents feel strongly that such arrangements should be made for their visiting confreres, and they do not think that arrangements made through the routine State Department officials would make for free and active comment.

In Paris the method of getting the news was bad. There was too much propaganda and too little of the individuality that newspaper work requires if it is to be in truth a fourth estate, a contributing power in the solution of great questions.

Obviously it is absurd to suppose that 200 newspaper men can be present at the meetings where real decisions are made. Their access to what is actually happening will have to be worked out in some other way.

HALF DOZEN WIELD POWER.

No doubt they will be admitted to some of the meetings, but these meetings will, in the nature of the case, not be as important as the small ones in which half a dozen men quietly wield the real power.

The whole problem of this fundamental aspect of the approaching conference is in its embryonic stage. It seems likely that the meetings will be held in the audience chamber of either the House or Senate office building, but beyond that probability nothing has developed. The Administration has no plans.

With all the experience of Paris to guide us, it seems as if some idea might to suggest itself. Any genius who is around loose with the right plan in his head has the chance to do a service to journalism and to the world.

GARAGE LICENSE REVOKED UNDER HEADLIGHT LAW

Killing of Marine by Driver Due to Defective Lights, Registrar Says

Frank A. Goodwin, State registrar of motor vehicles, revoked the registration of the Reading Garage and suspended the licenses of John W. Day of Reading, one of its chauffeurs.

The action was taken because of a violation of the automobile headlight law on the part of the garage, and of an accident in which the chauffeur was involved.

According to the evidence turned over to Mr. Goodwin, Day, on Monday night, the first day in which the headlight regulation went into effect, knocked down and killed Walter E. Frazier, marine, stationed at the Wakefield rifle range.

The chauffeur gave as the reason for the accident that he did not see Frazier until an instant before the fatality.

Registrar Goodwin declares that an investigation revealed that the car was not equipped with the proper headlights.

The registrar expressed the opinion that the offense is a flagrant one, inasmuch as it was committed by a concern whose business it is to know the law.

The Reading Garage, of which George B. Wells is president, operates five machines. Under the revocation order these will be held up from operating.

TO TEST NEW LIGHT AT BLOCK PARTY

A demonstration of the new Boston Fire Department floodlight which turns night into day will be given at the block party in Thomas J. Giblin square, Orient Heights, East Boston, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Eight lights of approximately 100,000 candle power each will be used to illuminate the 2,000 square feet of dancing space, donated by the city of Boston. The affair is under the auspices of Major J. P. Grady Camp and the Alice Grady Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans.

The new floodlight has been donated through the courtesy of Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy.

INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE ASSURED

Geneva, Aug. 18.—Creation of the permanent Court of International Justice is assured, it is announced here. The secretariat of the League of Nations has been informed that Spain and Haiti will soon deposit their ratifications of the agreement to establish the court, and when they are received the number of nations which have deposited ratifications will have reached twenty-four, the requisite number.

RUTH NORWOOD, FORMER PRIZE WINNER, ENTERS BIG SWIMMING RACE

TO COMPETE IN CARNIVAL OF BOSTON AMERICAN

Miss Ruth Norwood, the pretty eighteen-year-old New Bedford girl who won second prize last year in the Boston American girls' swimming race in Charles River Basin, has entered for this year's contest. Many who saw her swim last year confidently believe she will win first honors this year.

Last August she covered the course of 1½ miles, 200 feet, in 40 minutes, 10 seconds, or one minute and one second behind the winner. From her home at 192 West French avenue, New Bedford, she wrote that she is in fine physical condition and is practicing faithfully for the Boston American's big carnival, which takes place a week from Saturday at 2 p. m. While Miss Norwood is not overconfident, she hopes to be acclaimed champion girl swimmer of New England. That title goes to the girl who finishes first. Five prizes will be awarded.

ALL TRAINING FAITHFULLY.

Whether Miss Norwood will again have Miss Olive Holland of Wollaston as a rival is not certain. Miss Holland won first place last year and incidentally broke the record for the course. The Wollaston girl expects to decide definitely in a day or two whether she will enter. If she enters, the contest should develop into a battle royal.

Many of the girls already entered for the Boston American swimming contest are not only training daily but they will have a preliminary test of their skill next Saturday afternoon when they participate in the district meets of the Boston Park and Recreation Department.

The City of Boston district meets will take place at: Freeport Street Beach, for Dorchester and Neponset districts; Savin Hill Beach, for New Dorchester; L Street Bath, for South Boston; North End Park, for North and West Ends; Dewey Beach, for Charlestown; Hyde Park Park, for East Boston. The events begin at 2:30 p. m. Nearly all the winners in these districts meets will take part in the Boston American swim. The American contest will be somewhat in the nature of a final for them.

SEVENTY-NINE ON LIST.

BRITISH RUSH TO ENLIST IN ARMY OF SPAIN

Throng Consulate in London After Learning Recruits Are Sought

London, Aug. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Publication of the news that the Spanish consulate was enrolling recruits to fight against the rebellious tribesmen in Morocco resulted in a rush of former British soldiers to the consulate this morning in such numbers as to necessitate the presence of a large force of police to maintain order.

By noon the street about the consulate was crowded for 100 yards, congesting traffic. After ten applicants had been interviewed the doors of the consulate were closed and the police dispersed the crowd. As offices probably will be opened elsewhere to handle the applicants.

If You Want More Bodily and Mental Vigor

Try Me I Only Require One Minute

of your time each day. I have helped give thousands of weak, run-down, nervous folks, increased strength and endurance, in two weeks' time, in many instances.

I am not a doctor but PHYSICIANS HAVE OFTEN ADVISED PEOPLE TO TRY ME. Former UNITED STATES SENATORS, United States Army Generals, Judges of U. S. Courts and many well known people have availed themselves of my help.

STRONG MEN, ATHLETES, BRAIN WORKERS—they know what I can do when they want the "they there" strength and endurance that wins.

WOMEN WHO ARE WEAK, nervous and irritable as a result of overwork, worry or household drudgery have often obtained most surprising relief from me.

When, as a result of iron starvation, you feel feeling tired in the morning when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night, when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have nature across the back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but try me. I only take one minute of your time each day. I am NUXATED IRON—organic iron. I am like the iron in your blood and like the iron in animals, cereals and apples. I help make strong, powerful, red blooded men and beautiful, healthy, rose-cheeked women. Without iron like me, your blood becomes pale, thin and watery and loses its power to change food into living tissue, therefore nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it.

To prove to yourself what I can do get your doctor to take a specimen of your blood and make a "blood count" of your red blood corpuscles. Then after me for one month and have a new "blood count" made and see how your red blood corpuscles have increased and how much stronger and better you feel; how the color has come back to your face and how much stronger and more steady your nerves now are. I will not injure your teeth nor disturb your stomach. You need not take a cent on me. I do not give you satisfactory results my manufacturers will refund your money. Get only me. Beware of imitations. I come in tablets only; never in liquid form—Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet—and the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold at all druggists.

When All Else Failed Gland Pills Restored Health

So Says Mr. Geo. Spear, in Ill Health for Years; Thanks Glandex for Recovery.

"After being in a terribly weakened and run-down condition, during which I doctored and tried many different medicines without good results, today, thanks to Glandex Compound, I feel like a new man! My wife and friends say they have not seen me looking so well in years," said Mr. George E. Spear, 68 years old, for 18 years a respected citizen of Boston, living at 18 Harlow Street.

"A year ago last winter," he continued, "I had a bad case of the flu, which came very near finishing me. I was unable to work for several months my health was so poor. My stomach, kidneys and bladder bothered me a lot. I had no appetite, and I would get awful blue and down and out. I seemed to have no energy, and was pale, nervous and very thin. I had no energy or ambition to do anything.

"My wife had been reading in the papers about Glandex and urged me to try it, as my great surprise before I finished the first box I felt better. I kept on with Glandex and built up my strength and health. My appetite picked right up, all my stomach ailments began disappearing and, after taking Glandex, I am feeling just fine. My nerves are perfectly calm, the other spells have quit me and I sleep like a baby. My pale cheeks have more color and I have had for 20 years, and I certainly stand to recommend Glandex to all."

Amazing Results Everywhere.

The reason Glandex brings such amazing results in so many cases where other tonics fail to build up run-down glands—which science says are the cause of many run-down conditions—glands feed run-down tissues and cells with extracts taken from the glands of virgin steers and calves. Practically all the same principles as re-charging a storage battery. Glandex helps Nature do what well known body builders.

If weak pale, thin or generally run down for this remarkable tonic. Brings results—or your money back. Has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a bottle! Sold at good druggists everywhere.

HAY FEVER

Is the result of impaired conditions of the stomach and intestinal poisons, says a well known Boston doctor. A prominent Boston business man says, "For years I have suffered from this terrible summer agony and nothing ever relieved me. I began taking Sister Mary's Compound several weeks before the annual visit of this misery and for the first time I have been entirely free from hay fever. Start taking Sister Mary's Compound TODAY. If settled that it does not relieve you better than anything else, your money will be REFUNDED. NO alcohol, NO narcotics, NO oils. ALL drug stores or direct from Lowell Mass, on receipt of $1.25.—Advertisement.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

HOW TO SEND TEST PICTURES 61 AND 62

Participants Urged to Make Them Follow No. 60 in Order to Be Counted

The only reason for yesterday's reprinting of Test Picture No. 33 in the Songs of the World Title Test was that no participant in the Test should assume that the word "practical" had been chopped in two purposely.

It was NOT expected that you should look for the Correct Title of No. 32 in yesterday's List of Titles. (Whether it was there or not.) The only guarantee you can be given is that the Correct Title is printed in the List of Titles which appeared with the picture in its regular order, one month ago, and the Correct Title ALWAYS appears with its picture.

One letter received yesterday wanted to know what the Test Editor means by referring to Test Picture No. 24 as having been "dropped from the Test." The inquirer declared that he had "never heard of it" and wanted to know what was meant by reference to Pictures 61 and 62. He thought, he said, that this was a "test of sixty pictures." And so it is.

AS TO EXTRA PICTURES.

Pictures No. 61 and No. 62 take the place of Pictures No. 23 and No. 24, which were thrown out of the Test four or five weeks ago. It will not matter whether you send 23 and 24 along with your other pictures or not. They will not be counted, one way of the other. Test Pictures 61 and 62 should be No. 60, Please —for the convenience of the checkers—do not insert them in any other order.

Our friend the artist looks upon today's picture, he says, as his best "sticker" in the present Test. He is so sure that today's number is a "knockout" that he has wagered a box of cigars, a camera and a year's subscription to the American that not more than three participants will get the Correct Title. The main talks with such apparent assurance that he is almost convincing.

The 46,000 Songs of the World Title Test closes with tomorrow's printing of Test Picture No. 62. Participants will have until 12 o'clock midnight on Monday next to finally determine upon titles and mail or bring their parcels to the Boston American office.

The Boston American reserves the right to decline to consider sets of titles which arrive bearing insufficient postage. Your parcel, containing written or printed matter, of both, will be classified at "letter rates." It will be "first-class" mail. Stamp it accordingly.

60 PICTURES IN EACH.

Every parcel or set should consist of 60 Test Pictures, each with the title and other information written below it. Missing pictures will be counted as "incorrect titles." On the outside of the wrapper, in the upper left-hand corner, write carefully your name and address:

MRS. MARJORIE JONES,
No. 1999 North Main Street,
Fall River, Mass.

This is important, because names and addresses are entered upon the books at Title Test headquarters before a single package is opened. A week or ten days will be consumed in making up the books and numbering the thousands of parcels. When this work has been completed the parcels will be opened and every set of pictures will be stamped by a perforating machine. Not until this has been done will anybody except the present writer have a List of the Correct Titles.

All envelopes or packages should be addressed legibly as follows:

SONG TITLE EDITOR,
NO. 10 SUMMER STREET,
BOSTON, MASS.
P. O. BOX 239.

CAN BRING THEM IN.

Those who desire may bring their parcels to the Boston American office, No. 10 Summer street, or send them here by messenger. Clerks will be waiting for them in the business office on the second floor. No parcel will be accepted there after midnight on Monday night.

If your parcel is to come to us by mail, be sure it is IN the mail not later than the hour of midnight on Monday night. Those of you who reside on R. F. D. routes, in towns where there is but "one train a day," or in villages where the mails close at 5 p. m. or thereabouts, are admonished not to worry about this midnight closing. Everybody will be treated fairly; all these things are taken into consideration.

The important things are: First, get your parcel into the mail or deliver it at this office not later than 12 o'clock Monday night; second, remember that it must come to us with postage fully prepaid in order to be certain of consideration.

The Final Picture, No. 62, will be printed tomorrow.

READ CAREFULLY SONG TITLE TEST RULES

Following Regulations Govern All Points in Great $6,000 Trial of Skill

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given to this newspaper by its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Boston American.

All employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song, to be printed one each day in the Boston American, the first picture on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not disqualify you from entering this test, nor will any of your relatives or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of some book torn by itself, accompanied by the picture furnished by the Boston American, or on a piece of paper the same size thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant.

Do not send your title in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under each number on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the nearest approaching the correct solutions, due weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive duplicate awards.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American office, No. 10 Summer street, Boston, Mass., either by mail or messenger, at the specified time limit.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: Song Title Editor, No. 10 Summer street, Boston 6, Mass., P. O. Box 239, and must contain the sender's name and address in the upper left-hand corner.

All participants in the Test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes on the same footing as first-class matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which stamps for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Song Titles will be printed in the Boston American from time to time which contain simply the correct titles.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or additions to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly conducting the contest, and the decision of the editor of the Boston American Song Title Editor on any question which may arise will be considered final and the entry of a participant in a contest a acceptance of all conditions and regulations and under it to be made.

GATE TENDER SAVES 2 LIVES IN ONE DAY

Two rescues in one day is the record of William R. Richardson, 54 years old, crossing tender for the Boston & Maine at the tracks in Winchester square, Winchester. Richardson dragged two elderly persons from the tracks in the face of oncoming trains, one a man in the morning and the other a woman in the afternoon.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

We find you can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with cuticura. It makes a very supple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy; and the fluffy, in fact, that it looks more plentiful than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of cuticura, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair at once, a dash of just the top of the head.—Advertisement.

PIMPLES ON FACE FOR 3 YEARS

Also On Arms. Very Sore. Cuticura Healed.

"For three years my daughter was troubled with pimples on her face and arms. They were hard, large, and red, and some of them festered and were very sore. Her face was disfigured for a while, and she stayed in nearly all the time.

"She tried different remedies but they did not do any good so began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. S. P. McDuffy, 20 Franklin St., Exeter, N. H., Dec. 31, 1920.

Give Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum the daily care of your skin.

Sample Each Free by Mail, Address: "Cuticura Lab oratories, Dept. B, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

The Doctor Was Not Much Needed Until Folks Began to Break Nature's Laws.

Doctors Preach Prevention is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat ample food, exercise enough, sleep sufficiently, and—most important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and you have reached to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well known, time tested, mild and proven remedy, that has gained its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for many generations. Beecham's Pills is a household remedy, has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty beautiful endorsement of their worth? Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's

"Now I just put the clothes to soak before breakfast and rinse them out when the dishes are done —

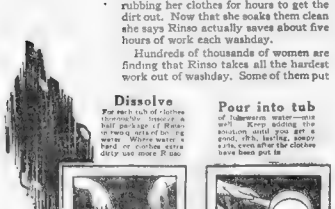
THIS is what one experienced housewife writes about doing her regular weekly wash with the marvelous new soap product, Rinso. Until recently she always made an all-day job of washing, rubbing her clothes for hours to get the dirt out. Now that she soaks them clean she says Rinso actually saves about five hours of work each washday.

Hundreds of thousands of women are finding that Rinso takes all the hardest work out of washday. Some of them put the clothes to soak the night before and rinse them out in the morning. Others find it easier to soak for a few hours during the day. All of them say they don't have to rub any but the most soiled spots and those only lightly. Rinso loosens every particle of dirt from even the heaviest pieces without injuring a single fabric.

Don't rub your youth away. Get a package of Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.



Dissolve
For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in very hot or boiling water. Where water is hard or clothes are dirty use more Rinso.
Pour into tub
of lukewarm water—one will do. Keep adding the soapy solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in

Then let your clothes soak—and rinse without any hard rubbing—Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—whatever time is convenient. Then wet, rub, if suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinse to remove the loosened dirt till the water runs clear

PERFECT IN WASHING MACHINES

With Rinso you don't have to do any rubbing. Follow regular directions given here. Soak the clothes. Then before operating the machine, add a fresh Rinso solution using the same amount of Rinso as you used for soaking. Rinso is perfect in washing machines because when Rinso is used.

LUCKY DOG! We have often heard this expression, but dog gone, here it is in real life! These sea sylphs are cruising the Atlantic and every morning rise with the dawn for their beauty splash. Diving from the ship, they say, is ideal. Snapped during a restful moment after a gay frolic in the water. (C.)

THIS ANCIENT LOCOMOTIVE and its successors played a prominent and interesting part in the development of the West. "The Pioneer" was the first engine to ply out of Chicago, starting its exciting career in October, 1848, on the Galena & Chicago Union R. R., now part of the great Chicago & Northwestern system, and the first railway from Chicago to the West and Northwest. "The Pioneer's" cylinders are just 11 inches in diameter and its total weight is only 12 tons. Locomotives in those days were given names instead of numbers, hence "The Pioneer" appellation. (I.)

GRIT! One of the paramount characteristics of the average American is his "sand." Thus we have William Jones, one of San Francisco's leading landscape painters, plying his trade despite the loss of both arms. Achieves some remarkable results. (K. & H.)

ARE YOU FIT FOR YOUR JOB? That is, of course, if you're one of those lucky persons that has a job. This recently invented platform, with its impedimedia, will accurately test the energy and resistance of the human body. Invented by Prof. Langlois of Paris, it has just been demonstrated before the Academy of Science. A man walking, running or waking can be studied in detail by means of registering apparatus. It accurately measures the temperature, arterial pressure and psychical reactions of the person under experiment. (K. & H.)

OH, PRUNES! That's not an expression but the name of the mascot of the U. S. S. California, now anchored off San Francisco after a successful cruise. "Prunes" is, naturally enough, a California product. He's the cutest little black bear you ever saw. Photo shows a couple of the boys giving him a ride. (Int.)

She swam the entire length in one hour and nine minutes and led the field of men and swimmers throughout. Shown with some of the men she defeated. Photo taken just after the race. (W. W.)

A GRIM EXPERIMENT! The woman in the coffin is Sarah Bernhardt, but the photograph isn't as depressive as it looks. Seized by a strange mood several years ago, the actress insisted that she be photographed as she would look when dead. She purchased an expensive coffin, bought sweet smelling flowers and a pure white silk dress for the occasion.

HUTCHISON GIVES TIPS ON HOW TO SELECT THE PROPER GOLF CLUBS

By JOCK HUTCHISON.

One of the hardest things that I have to do is to pick out a set of ... for another person. I wonder if it is so with the other pros?

... that he will be pleased with and ... a success.

... The next club to be considered is the midiron which is very useful for the beginner. There are many different kinds of midirons, so I always size up the strength of the pupil in picking out this club. The length of the club is not important as it can always be cut off a little if too long. Clubs are never made very short unless ordered that way.

... a clerk. Years ago this was one of the stand-bys, but few use the clerk nowadays. Pros carry one as a rule, but you seldom find it in the bag of the amateur golfer. It is a hard club to use and besides the driving iron and spoon have taken its place. Amateurs like to use a jigger, but pros seldom have any use for this club. The jigger has its uses and those who know how to play the club well would feel dreadfully upset if they found it missing from their bag. The jigger can be used for distance a little longer than a mashie would take you. It sometimes serves as an approaching iron. The jigger, like the clerk I am afraid is the least useful club to the average player. The blade of both of these clubs is narrow and deep so accuracy is required to make a shot with them. There is more margin with a wider blade such as you will find in the mashie iron or the driving iron.

... I was going to suggest that the fourth and last club to start with be a putter but it is just as well that the beginner have a niblick from the very start. Goodness knows this club is of the greatest importance to the finished golfer and the duffer alike. The beginner, of all persons, needs this implement for the long grass and the sand traps. Therefore it is just as well to add one to the golf bag at first.

... utter you play in the beginning. The most common type is a sort of straight blade somewhat resembling ... in shape.

... see what you can do with them. It isn't possible to learn enough shots ... mentioned and I am sure one will get greater satisfaction out of a few than from a whole bag full.

... A little later on it will be necessary to add enough clubs to this collection to make a complete set. About twelve clubs are carried by the average professional. Amateurs do not use as many, I find, and in this they are perhaps wise.

... A full and complete assortment would be as follows: A driver, a brassie, a spoon, a driving iron, a midiron, a mashie-iron, a mashie, a niblick, and a putter some might want to carry two midirons or two different kinds of mashie or putters.

... I never saw two golfers that had clubs just alike or anywhere near ... Every man has a pet club that becomes a great help to him, but in a useless weapon in the hands of another player. This club might be a ... mashie, a niblick, and a putter some might want to carry two midirons or two different kinds of mashie or putters.

... In the list of clubs I mentioned ...

I know some pros that carry as many as fifteen clubs with them, but this is overdoing it. It is a great burden to the caddie and besides it would not be possible to find use for so many. Most professionals can make a variety of shots with one club. I think it much more advisable to learn to play a few clubs well than to play a lot of clubs badly.

Golf clubs have changed considerably since I used to caddie around the old St. Andrews links. The improvement in golf courses brought about a change in weapons. While back in Scotland this summer I used to go into Tom Morris' shop and Forgan's place and look the clubs over. I realized then what a vast change had been made in clubs in the last twenty years.

RICHARD QUARREN—A gifted young idler, who falls in love with Strelsa.

LANGLY SPROWL—A multi-millionaire, who has determined to marry Strelsa, and who has explained his unsavory past to her by a seemingly frank talk.

SIR CHARLES MALLISON—A rich Englishman, who has long hoped to win Strelsa's heart.

MARY LEDWITH - Who, betrayed by Sprowl, at last sees the good in Chester Ledwith, the husband she tossed aside.

THE EARL OF DANKMERE—Who brings over a lot of family pictures and incidentally starts Quarren on the road to usefulness.

MOLLY WYCHERLY—A great friend of Strelsa's, who breaks to Quarren the news that the young widow has lost all her money.

MRS. SPROWL—A Fifth avenue dowager, who undertakes a matrimonial campaign for Strelsa, hoping to marry her to Sir Charles Mallison.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Well, it looks as if the anthracite mine owners have been able to lick us. Those of us who have delayed ordering our next Winter's supply of coal in the hope that the same thing would happen to coal prices as has happened to other prices may as well admit defeat and place our orders without further delay.

* * *

I have had a very thorough investigation made among coal dealers in New York and find that, although business has been at a standstill, the producers have strictly maintained their high prices. When consumers stopped buying normal quantities of clothing, sugar, steel and so forth, prices were reduced by the producers because they could not afford to sit back and do nothing. Moreover, they felt obliged to do their utmost to keep their organizations together and to retain as many of their workers as possible.

* * *

But, although there has been a very loud outcry against the price of anthracite coal and a widespread holding off on the part of buyers, the anthracite magnates have had somewhat light. Indeed, one of their trade organs some time ago warned the public that they might as well place their orders for coal at the high prices, as the producers had made enough money to enable them to wait until the early months of next year, when, it was added, the latter would be glad to pay any price asked. Perhaps the wise men of the coal giants would act is proving to have been correct.

* * *

Various official and unofficial representatives of those who control the anthracite industry have come and tried to convince me that the actions of the mine owners have been beyond criticism and that their record really is lily-white. But the subject of prices they have declared very emphatic that the operators could not afford to make any cuts. But haven't companies in almost every other industry also felt that they could ill afford to lower prices to the extent many have? Reductions have been lowered." The profits of almost every industrial enterprise have suffered severely during the last twelve months through price cutting. But it was either a case of meet competition or shut shop.

Apparently, however, the anthracite coal companies have no immediate cohorts that they are immune from all competition, all price cutting. They have an automatic outlet, presumably it is accounted an unclubby act to try to get business by making prices attractive to buyers.

Also, the anthracite people know that they have the public by the neck, these families will pay any price for coal rather than freeze to death it is illegal for the millions in New York city, for example, to burn soft coal. The anthracite magnates know, therefore that the public are powerless. If they refuse to buy coal during the warmer season because prices are regarded as exorbitant, the mine owners and their dealers know full well that the business will come to them once the frost begins to nip.

Isn't this a glorious position to be in?

* * *

First, you know that none of your associates in your national association will lower prices.

Second, you know that it is against the law for millions of people to use anything but your product.

Third, you know that the public can't live without your product, and that if they don't buy early they must toe the line and pay any price you care to ask later.

* * *

Is it any wonder that, so circumstanced, those who control the anthracite industry have invented in such a way that they have incurred the ill will of the American people?

Or is it astonishing that they have likewise failed to get along even half-way decently with those who work for them?

There's a reason for everything if we can only find it. Let the anthracite magnates awaken to the fact that there must be a reason for the ill will universally felt toward them, alike by the public and their workers.

The railroad capitalists used to be almost as arrogant and autocratic as those anthracite mine owners. They didn't give a hang what the public hated them or not. They were so powerful, they were so entrenched, their profits were so high (or so essential, that they felt they could do as they jolly well pleased. And they did.

But a day of reckoning came. They learned that the American public, once sufficiently exasperated, is more powerful than any one group in it. The people made the railroad magnates get off their high horse and subjected them to treatment they little liked.

* * *

The plutocrats who control the anthracite coal industry have landed themselves in the same position as the railroad capitalists landed themselves years ago. When railroad regulation was finally instituted it became well nigh strangulation. That experience ought to act as a warning to the anthracite capitalists.

* * *

Yes, the public feel that they have been tricked, and tricked thoroughly, in this round of the fight against the dominators of our anthracite coal supply. The result of the final round is likely to be very different.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Hogs dropped 75 cents on the Chicago market, bringing prices down around $10, the lowest price in several months.

REPORT BOOSTS PETROLEUM STOCK

Better Tone Shown by Steel Common During Morning in Wall Street

New York, Aug. 18.—Generally, the stock market was steadier in the earlier trading today. Be it uttered it was weak and unsettled.

Rails and equipments carried yesterday's rally to greater lengths at the opening. Sinclair's evidently was the source of financial relief for the transportation numbers before the comprehensive report and lease contracts in those issues.

Reading, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Baldwin, Pullman and Westinghouse Electric averaged one point gains. Coals were irregular. Steel and allied shares were lower and Industrial Alcohol, on which dividend action was expected today, also declined.

Continuation of the favorable impression created by publication of Mexican petroleum earnings for the six months to June 30 made this issue the specialty of leaders. After initially declining 1 in which Mexican Petroleum lost 8 to 92, the stock turned strong in the first hour and within minutes, rose over 4 points, every of 6% from the low of the session, which was 87.

Steel common also showed a better tone, advancing to 74⅞ against a low of 73⅞ on Wall Street Journal's list, which was up ¼ at 63⅞.

The technical character of the rally in stocks on Wednesday after a number of issues had reached new low prices for the year became apparent in the first hour of business today. For a time the market had a show of strength, but by the end of the first hour trading resumed the feeling out process for weak spots, causing declines of from 1 to 2 points. American Sumatra Tobacco, after reaching 43⅝, sold off to 41¾. Studebaker from 72⅞ declined to 69½. Mexican Petroleum from 94⅛ declined to 92¼. Fan American from 42⅝ to 40⅝. Cuban Cane Sugar from 9⅜ to 8⅝ and the preferred from 22¼ to 21¾.

The rails took part of their early gains.

Wall Street Briefs

A petition is being circulated on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange asking that it have the Rosario Mining Company removed from the list, it was learned today. The company is undergoing voluntary dissolution proceedings, with the liquidation of its assets in the hands of Lyons Petroleum as the receiver.

An agreement between the government of Uruguay and a syndicate of American bankers for a loan of $5,000,000 was signed today, it was learned. The loan will be floated immediately to substitute funds advanced by Morgan's Wall Street firm. The loan is for one year, bears 8 per cent interest, and is secured by 50 per cent of the customs receipts of the country.

Moody's Weekly Review of railroad reports for year ended December 31, 1920, profits of 1,000 roads, with approximately 230,000 miles, showed a net operating income of $1,500,000 in previous year. The company's report is expected to be issued under Wednesday's consolidation of interstate commerce commission reports.

Negotiations for the purchase of the Mexican Petroleum, as the nucleus of a combination of interests, including the Royal Dutch-Shell group, the government of Uruguay and a syndicate of American bankers, were completed today, it was learned. The deal involves the payment of $5,000,000 in cash, according to intimations from abroad.

The American Petroleum Institute estimates the total production of crude petroleum in the United States for the week ended August 13 at 1,900,000 barrels, a decrease of 30,000 barrels for the previous week, as compared with the week ended August 6.

Railway Items

Fifteen of the larger railroads with actual operating deficits in the month of July, and twenty-one roads which failed to earn their fixed charges, reported to the interstate commerce commission today. Class 1 roads, as a whole, showed an operating deficit of $1,000,000 for July, as compared with $19,000,000 in June.

Heavy floods which caused damage in New England territory caused the roads to suffer a loss of $1,000,000 in July, it was estimated. Net for the month was $18,000,000 as compared with $19,000,000 in June.

Net operating income for July was $4,000,000, compared with $19,000,000 in June, it was shown by the figures. Net railway operating income for the seven months ended July 31 was $184,000,000, as compared with $1,000,000 for the same period in 1920.

Gross revenues for July were $400,000,000, as compared with $500,000,000 in June. Gross revenues for the seven months ended July 31 were $2,800,000,000, as compared with $3,500,000,000 for the same period in 1920.

Corporate Bonds

Corporate bonds maturing in September are comparatively large, aggregating $64,141,500, against $55,000,000 in August and $45,707,000 in September, 1920. Maturities for 3 months are divided as follows: $18,258,000 bonds, $21,819,500 public utility bonds and $18,624,000 industrials.

Largest September maturity is $25,000,000 Interborough Rapid Transit 7 per cent 7 year notes, although railroad commission has sanctioned extension of $19,000,000 Rock Island 6 per cent issue increased from 7 to 8 per cent.

Dividend Declarations

The Wilkins Hardware & Dry Goods has declared a semi-annual dividend of $3 a share, payable September 1.

The Union Bag & Paper Co has declared its 2½% quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable September 1.

To Cut Wages

American Railway is sending over 50 notices, and will soon follow with several hundred more, to employes in the Chicago district, notifying them that wages will be reduced 10 cents an hour, effective September 1. Notices are being sent to employes in the maintenance of way and structural departments, and to those in the shops, roundhouses and stations. Reductions will range from 5 to 10 cents an hour, according to the class of work performed. Wages will be reduced 10 per cent, it was said, in the case of those receiving 60 cents an hour or less. It is planned to reduce the wages of those receiving more than 60 cents an hour, but heightening slightly the differential between the two. The next will be effective September 15.

UNITED FRUIT STEADY; MAKES SMALL GAIN

Fairly Good Atmosphere in the Boston Stock Market During Morning Trading

While many issues were unchanged, there was a fairly good tone to the Boston market throughout the morning.

New England was neglected and coppers were inactive. Packing stocks were slightly lower. Canton Hill was active and made a further small gain. United Fruit was steady.

Utah Securities, an issue of a new New England Oil Corporation, listed today, was traded in for the first time, starting at 8 and reaching 8½. Small changes were the rule in most of the industrials. Gains were Am. Telephone, Copper Range, United Fruit, Gray & Davis and Nipissing.

Small losses were recorded by Swift & Co., Central Leather, National Leather and Boston Elevated.

The Boston Curb opened quiet and irregular. Gains were included in Boston & Montana, Eureka, Mutual and Crystal. Arizona Commercial and Tonopah Belmont were divided. Boston & Montana was selling at 70 cents, up 2 cents. Small losses were Mohawk, 25 cents, off 2 cents; Crystal, 35 cents, off 2 cents; Wolverine Tonopah, 10 cents, off 1 cent, and Alpha, 80 cents, off 1 cent.

Reports from the steel districts are encouraging, so encouraging, in fact, that one authority says if the long expected turn for the better has arrived.

Operations of all companies have increased materially. One large is dependent, from an operating schedule of 15 per cent, over most of the second quarter, is running 40 per cent. Bethlehem Corporation, from a low of 24 per cent, in July, is operating at over 70 per cent, and satisfactory gains are shown by almost all other concerns. The tale of fuller production is also substantiated by the company statement for the six months of this year which was issued today. Net earnings, available for dividends, were $1,000,000 more than the deficit reported for the same period last year.

Steel trade observers are not inclined to trade the future with too great optimism. They express opinion that the worst is not yet passed, or willespread as a few weeks ago. BLACKMAIL NOTE SENT TO STILLMAN

Banker Threatened With Death Unless $100,000 Is Forthcoming

Cleveland, O., Aug. 18.—"Send me $100,000 by September first or you will meet the same fate as Dan Kaher did."

Thus reads part of a blackmail letter, bearing a Cleveland date and now in the hands of post office inspectors here, written to James A. Stillman, multi-millionaire New York banker, whose efforts to divorce his wife, Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman, have attracted so much attention.

Post office officials and police said that they were "hot on the trail" of the writer and believed that he could not escape the net spread for him at this time.

OPPOSES MUSIC TO KEEP P. O. MEN AWAKE

Postmaster Baker Favors Sandwiches and Coffee as More Practical

Music may serve as a balm for the wearied souls of postal employes in Minneapolis, but here in the effete East the men would rather have something to eat.

This is the opinion of Roland M. Baker, postmaster in charge of the Boston district. His opinion was expressed after newspaper stories relating the experience of Minneapolis postal clerks on the night shift, who are beguiled and kept awake by phonograph music throughout the long watches, were brought to his attention.

According to Minneapolis dispatches, the music enabled the men to perform their work efficiently and dissipated all traces of fatigue.

"The main idea is probably a good one," said Baker today. "But if ever get any appropriations to cover measures to make life easier for the night men I'm going to see to it that they can get lunches—sandwiches and coffee or something—along about 2 o'clock in the morning. I think that would be much more satisfactory."

Baker added that, after the lunches, fresh air and better light were needed. He said that no such innovations can be made here, however, without orders from the Postmaster General in Washington.

Dr. Leo Frankel, in charge of the postal welfare department, is now making a tour of postoffices throughout the country. When he returns he will recommend certain changes in postoffice routine to Postmaster-General Hays.

Approximately 4,500 persons are employed in the Boston district.

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS

IT IS a curious thing that so many crooks pick on movie celebrities to impersonate. Daily reports come into Hollywood of stories that this or that star has been in wash and such a place for some time, when he or she has been hard at work in the studio. Invariably a story of theft follows on the heels of the first. It may seem funny to the average person but to those impersonated it is becoming a serious matter.

Early last Spring the Chicago National League baseball club was going through practice at Catalina, Cal. A young fellow came along and spoke knowingly of baseball matters, then the conversation switched to the movies. The young chap informed them that he was none other than Harold Lloyd. Unfortunately for him a fashion picture writer was there at the time and knew Harold Lloyd personally. He decided to show him up. He took the man by the arm and walked him right in front of the players. "Come on and meet the boys," he urged. The other's knees began to sag and he started edging off. In a minute all they could see of him was a small cloud of dust rising in the distance.

Recently Bebe Daniels was swindled out of $75 by some young woman who had posed as the star and such a game. She was billed in Los Angeles, Priscilla Dean was also impersonated in a town in the middle West, where the imposter spent a week at a large hotel, living in the greatest luxury, and departed suddenly, leaving a bill for the real Miss Dean to pay.

Wanda Hawley, too, has been the victim of such a game. She received a note from a man in Connecticut in which he asked her where she was going to marry him. It seemed that a girl traveling with a fashion show had said she was Miss Hawley and had promised to come home and marry the man at the end of her tour.

When a couple were married in the South last season, someone with a perverted sense of humor, told a cub reporter that the principals were Cecil De-Mille and Louise Glaum. He immediately rushed to his paper with this "scoop" and wrote a glowing story of it. As a matter of fact, Mr. DeMille has been married for eighteen years and has never met Miss Glaum.

THEDA BARA RETURNS.

THE question of Theda Bara's future plans is settled at last. She will return to the screen in several stories which she bought on her recent trip abroad. Miss Bara while she will renew acquaintance with her fans by making personal appearances over the United States. She starts September 3 on a twelve weeks' tour of the principal cities. In connection with this appearance she will show a two-reel picture made especially for this trip. Her next films will be made abroad, one in Italy and one in France.

THEDA BARA

EXCITEMENT FOR THOMPSONS

WHEN Frances Marion and her husband, Fred Thompson, retired to their Summer home at White Plains for a long vacation and complete rest from the vigors of the studios, they didn't know that excitement followed even vacationers. The other day Miss Marion was playing with her great dane, Count Rohen, the huge dog that has been their pet for some time, when he suddenly turned on her and bit her.

Mr. Thompson rushed to her assistance, attracted the dog's attention away from his wife and smacked him off, but not before he was severely bitten. The dog was so savage that it was found necessary to kill him. At the Pasteur Institute, where his head was sent, they declared that he was suffering with rabies. The Thompsons are paying daily visits to the Institute for twenty-five days where they are undergoing treatment.

ELMER HARRIS TO VACATION.

ELMER HARRIS, director of the Realart scenario department, has reached the conclusion that he deserves a vacation. Judging from the number of films that come out of the Realart studios with Mr. Harris' name on them as author or continuity writer, he's right.

Mr. Harris, who is now in Hollywood, plans for the first the first of September to embark from Boston on a thirty-eight foot yawl for New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. While in the latter place he will inspect a silver fox farm of which he is part owner.

CAMERA CLICKS.

EDDIE SUTHERLAND has been chosen to appear opposite Bebe Daniels in her next Realart feature, "Spring Fever," from the story by Katherine Finkerton and Grace Drew, adapted by Douglas Doty.

DESPITE the strike at his studio, Buster Keaton is progressing rapidly with his second comedy for First National. While he hasn't the Kling lights or the carpenjaned sets—the carpenters and mechanics are "out"—he is working out-of-doors and using the sunshine for light effects.

ONCE again "C. B." De Mille has "nothing" in for rapid-fire production. He will start September first to make a picture which he plans to have finished by October first. The story has not been announced, but it is rumored that Beatrice Joy will play the leading role.

ARETHUSA FLITS AGAIN AND LAYS OFF CHATHAM

'Joy Ship' Accompanied by Two Revenue Cutters; May Return to Gloucester

By International News Service.

Gloucester, Aug. 18.—The liquor running schooner Arethusa, which has stopped at various points off the North Atlantic Coast in the course of a thrilling business in whiskies, champagnes and other liquors, was reported today to radio messages by ships who sighted her, to be off Chatham. Two revenue cutters were said to be accompanying the vessel.

Rumors that the Arethusa will return here are given apparent grounds on the fact that a large party has been planned for tonight for the purpose of visiting the liquor laden craft.

During the ship's stay off Thatcher's island near here yesterday many residents visited her and the Arethusa's skipper took occasion to come ashore and deposit money in a local bank.

BRAY AND SHEERAN WIN AUDIENCE AT CONDIT'S

The appearance at Condit's last night of Jimmie Bray and May Sheeran, probably the most celebrated whirlwind dance artists of New England, drew a record crowd to the Summer ballroom at Revere Beach. These performers have just completed a very successful vaudeville tour, playing at many of the leading houses in New England and Middle Western States, and come direct from Narragansett Pier Casino, where they made a sensation among the society folks.

They are at Condit's for three nights only, including tonight and tomorrow night.

Dig Up Prehistoric Sea Monster on Missouri Farm

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 18.—The petrified remains of what is believed to be a prehistoric reptile or deep sea monster of gigantic proportions have been uncovered on a farm near Racine, Mo., 15 miles south of here.

The general contour of the fossil is in a good state of preservation and resembles a gigantic lizard. The head is two feet long. The forelegs measure 12 feet in length and the petrified object is 24 feet long, from head to tail, the tail measuring 12 feet.

"MISS MOSELEY" TO BE CHOSEN FRIDAY NIGHT

The atmosphere and conditions at Moseley's on the Charles are quite unique. The spacious ballroom, with its third appeal of the river pavilion is to be eaten crowd, although there is a large attendance of dancers from all over Boston. Since Messrs. Monaghan and Moran have assumed the management, numerous feature stunts have been introduced, and the crowning of Miss Moseley for the week ending is expected to be one of the most charming events of the season.

The young lady who will be nominated Miss Moseley will be selected by a committee of judges from among members on that occasion and besides the distinction of being the most beautiful and skilful dancer and wearing the title of the pavilion she will be presented a handsome prize.

MAYFLOWER IS ENTERED FOR TRIAL RACE

Schooner First on List for Honor to Sail for the United States

By Associated Press

Gloucester, Aug. 18.—The schooner Mayflower, built by a Boston syndicate as a contender for the right to represent the United States in the international fishermen's race at Halifax in October, was today formally entered for the elimination trials.

It was the first entry made with the American race committee since the announcement a few days ago that entries would be received until September 10 for races to be held off the Massachusetts coast beginning October 1.

The Mayflower entry was signed by Fred L. Pigeon as a representative of the Schooner Mayflower Association. The announcement a few days ago that entries would be received until September 10 for races to be held off the Massachusetts coast beginning October 1.

Should Have Independence if They Want It

Irish People in Position Similar to Americans at One Time During Revolutionary War

Whatever the outcome of the British proposals for the settlement of the Irish question may be, it is wise in anticipation to recall to mind a similar instance in our own affairs during our war for independence against the domination of Great Britain.

There was a time just preceding the first shot that was heard around the world, when one-half of what the British offered us later we would gladly have accepted. Then blood went over the dam, and when, after fighting began, the British offered us twice as much as we would have taken before, we rejected it. We then told the British nothing less than independence would satisfy us.

The British said they would not submit to independence, they would not see the empire broken, "dissevered, discordant by a belligerent." They dared not let an alien power control the great, strategic American coast line, half way between Great Britain and India. It was a monstrous strategic impossibility. Her military men and her sailors drew ghastly pictures of the awful consequences.

So we went on fighting for six years more, when the British quit and took a chance on those awful consequences which the military men and the sailors predicted if an alien power controlled the strategic positions in America.

Ireland has still some years to go before she will equal in the length of her fighting on this occasion that seven years' struggle which Washington lead during the Revolutionary War.

We have already pointed out to the world the singular likeness of respect accorded to Washington and to De Valera. Though outlaws and rebels in the eyes of the British government, their character, the dignity and poise of their conduct and of their public utterances, compelled the British government to refer to both men in terms of equality and respect.

We do not know what the decision of the Irish people will be. We do know that they are amply justified in refusing to accept anything except independence, if they should so decide. But if they should choose to accept less, we shall rejoice with them if it is a matter of rejoicing to them, for after all what the Irish people want is what we want them to have.

The Lunatic Liberian Loan

United States Now Asked to Toss Away Another $5,000,000

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

And now comes somebody professing to represent the administration and urges that the loan of $5,000,000 promised to Liberia during wartimes for war purposes must still be made, although wartime is past and war purposes are no more.

A nation with something more than $10,000,000,000 loaned out upon which it is unable to collect any interest is asked to toss five millions more into the international waste basket for no conceivable advantage.

Meantime the same administration that urges this action officially declares that the nation is entirely too poor to pay a just and honorable bonus to its distressed and needy soldiers.

But, we are told, the consummation of this loan will advance trade by making us popular with Liberia. Perhaps. But if will why not let those who hope to profit by that trade make loan?

It is not so very long ago that our national treasury was forced to $25,000,000 for the benefit of Colombia. The taxers who put up the money were told that the payment was so essential to keep Colombia and other Latin American countries in an amiable mood toward the United States. Without it they might be sulky and not love us with that undying affection that a big roll of greenbacks can buy of persons whose affections are purchasable.

After Congress had made the appropriation it was discovered that oil fields in Colombia could be more profitably exploited by certain American corporations if the payment were made to the Colombian politicians.

All our people shared in providing the $25,000,000; an infinitesimal few have stock in the oil corporation that profits thereby.

But we are further informed that if we do not make this loan to Liberia, British or French interests are likely to do it, and to profit by the aloofness of the United States. Of course nowadays $5,000,000 is a trifle, scarcely to be spoken of among nations without embarrassment. But small as it is, it is much more than Great Britain or France has thus far shown signs of paying in interest upon its debt to this government.

If either nation has money enough to lend to the Negro Republic of Liberia it might, under pressure, be induced to find enough to pay interest on its debt to the United States.

The suggestion that the administration is interested in making this indefensible loan to Liberia is put forth anonymously and perhaps as a "feeler." If so, we have not much doubt that the feeling that will result will be analogous to that experienced by a man who thrusts a hand into a hornets' nest.

Ever Think of This?

Here's something that happens to you every day—and this is probably the first time you ever thought of it.

When you buy any article, the merchant has figured into the price the taxes he expects to pay later on—surtax, excess profits tax and all the rest of them.

Say the merchant is doing a gross business of a million a year and expects to make a hundred thousand and to pay taxes on that amount. But suppose, for different unforeseen reasons, he has to earn a profit on the year's business, and has no income tax to pay. What then?

Well, YOU have paid the expected tax to him, because he, really, put it into the prices of his goods. But the government got none of the tax you paid, because Mr. Merchant, through bad judgment or bad luck, failed to make enough to be taxed.

Now, that kind of thing happens all the time, here and there, and you folks are continually paying sales taxes that never reach the government, though there is nothing crooked about the transaction.

Can't you see that if we all paid a direct sales tax, every dollar of which went straight into our public funds, the taxes would be less than we pay now?

Nothing new about it; just better than the sales tax we have. Better for the seller. Better for the buyer. Better for everybody.

WOMEN MUST LEARN TO MARKET AGAIN

Successful Opening of Farmers' Public Market in San Francisco Described—Housekeepers Are Taking Advantage of the Low Prices and Opportunity to Pick and Choose

By Annie Laurie.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—How about the Farmers' Public Market?

Is it doing all we all hoped it would for the San Francisco housekeeper and the California farmer?

Not yet. Maybe it is too early to judge.

It has only been opened for two days and the people have fairly swamped the place with buyers, all crowding in and refusing to go home till the last box of potatoes or of fruit or of onions is sold and gone.

Also, of course, you can't expect fancy packages and expert salesmen at such a place. Those are the things that help add to the prices of which we all complain so bitterly. And then there isn't yet quite the variety the average marketer wants.

Doubtless all that will be changed in a few days. Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither will a new sort of market grow into practical efficiency in less than a week.

Learn to Shop.

San Francisco housekeepers will have to learn to shop at a public market as people always shop at such places; picking out things for herself, calling a porter and getting him to look after them for her. And a market is a market. Some days the apples are riper than others and sometimes the potatoes are late—that's the way they come out of the ground and off the trees. It's a question of good eyes and good judgment and real interest.

There's no doubt in the world that the prices at the public market are marvelous, and nobody can ever have the faintest suspicion again that the San Francisco housekeeper doesn't care what she gets for her family table and what she pays for it.

She wants a free market and she will get up early to trade in such a place—that's settled once and for all.

The market is advertising in all the country papers for vegetables and fruit and offers are coming in from all over the central part of the State, from small farmers and big farmers, and the town is fairly snatching at the public market opportunity.

The place is jammed from the opening minute to the very last second, with housewives and housemakers and newly-weds and husbands and fathers—all of them trying to do the best they can for their families.

Wouldn't it be great if the old-fashioned idea of housekeeping should come back along with the idea of going to market?

More home-made bread, more home-made cake, more home-canned fruit, more home-made pickles, more home and more home-making.

Hark! Do I hear a dissenting voice from the men?

I trow not.

The women—well, I don't know. The women act a good deal as if they meant business just now about their marketing.

There are a good many families who want to save a little money for cloudy weather, and it's keeping some people busy trying to have a check ready for the income tax, too, and the women are trying their best to help.

For my part, it warms my heart to see them.

Take a step down on the Farmers' Public Market this morning and see what you think about it.

No, it isn't the real, old-fashioned public market with individual stalls for individual sellers—yet. But why shouldn't it turn into one if the people show they want it?

Seattle has a fine market run by the city.

So has Portland, so has Kansas City, so has New Orleans.

Did you ever have a cup of French coffee at daybreak at the French market down there—just beyond the old slave auction place—and a French petit pain and a cut of butter fresh from the farm to go with it?

No?

You've missed something.

Everybody there in the dim dawn—the farmers with their trucks, the negro mammies with their baskets, the market men with their wagons—all climbing up on high stools and taking a sip or so of French Drip.

And afterwards, when everything was sold and the roustabouts were sweeping up the scraps, a breakfast at Begue's—up over a musty little shop—such a breakfast, such laughter, such stories, such songs! Ah, that's living, isn't it?

Baltimore—Now there's a market—a picture and a delight. What crabs, what fish, what oysters, what terrapin! Washington—what green peas. What bushels of green corn, what piles of melons. All straight from the farm or the fisherman's boat or from the net to the market stall. And the man who caught the fish or his brother, and the man who raised the melons or his wife, sitting in the stall making a bargain with you. A city market director to forbid gouging on either side. You and your wife and the farmer and his goods—you can't beat the combination.

A women told me the other day about the beginning of the Portland City Market.

"The women began it," she said. "We got tired of paying out everything we had for wilted vegetables and withered fruit and skinny chickens and storage eggs. And we agitated and held meetings and made speeches and went to see the farmers and talked to the city fathers and we got ready to start the free public market on one side of town. And the other side said 'No, unless we have one, too.' So we consolidated, both sides of town, and all the biggest improvement clubs (men's clubs and women's clubs together) and we put the thing through. And the city gave us the space, and put up the booths. And every day there's a drawing and you get the number of your booth if you have anything to sell, and every day you come to town or send Jimmy or Sally and sell at the market what you've grown at home.

"Oh, yes, the farmers' wives come, too. They love it. They bring their eggs and butter and chickens and sometimes old-fashioned garden flowers, too. And milk and vegetables and fruit. And there they sit like the market women of the old ballads and they make something fair on what they've worked so hard to produce, and the people get something for their money and everybody is delighted.

"No, not everybody, of course. There are some who can't bear the idea of going to market. They'd rather telephone, and let father pay the bill.

Cutting Down Prices

"And then there are the women who say, 'I don't see that things are much cheaper there than anywhere else'—never remembering what things were till the City Market pulled prices down. On Saturdays the children come and sell things and women's clubs give prizes for the best account kept by children. And we have a great time over the first strawberries and the first cherries, etc. And it draws the farmer folks and the city folks together in a nice, friendly American sort of way. We think it made Portland ever, and it certainly did cut down the prices with the marketers and keep up the prices with the farmers."

"Going yet? I should say so. Better send up there and get a news story about it."

Interesting, isn't it? Rather hopeful and human, it seems to me.

I wonder if we'll ever get round to anything like that here in our rich, generously endowed, amazing San Francisco.

A woman wrote a letter to the paper about fish the other day, complaining that there was never any salmon in the fish market lists here—and lo, and behold, here it is now, day after day—have you noticed it?

Milk's coming down. It's only 2 cents a quart in the Portland market—sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it? And the Oregon farmer gets his regular price for it, too.

Queer things, markets.

Isn't it interesting to hear about them?

MAKE THE BEST OF IT

Just because the order of things as decided on by your boss does not suit you is no reason why you should not enter heartily into his plans.

You should realize that your employer has the right to do what he chooses about his place of business, irrespective of whether you are pleased.

It is possible you resent a certain order which you have to follow and you think it would be better if you would do it another way.

Don't be too quick to say so.

Try to get both sides of the matter in your mind first.

If you are convinced that it does not work out right and you have the proof, then go to headquarters and present your case, not in the way of fault-finding, but with the desire to bring about an improvement.

If your boss is the right sort of a man he will listen to you.

But because you have suggested changes do not expect them to be at once adopted.

You cannot expect that your boss is always going to take you into his confidence as to why he decides on certain courses.

You would not do so were you in his place.

AMERICAN SHIPS STILL HIRING ALIENS

By Nellie Bly

The United States of America will never build up an American merchant marine by employing aliens to do it.

The first necessary step toward the success of the American merchant marine is a thorough housecleaning. Every position connected with the United States Shipping Board must be filled by an American both at home and abroad. Americans who believe in their country, who are patriotic and enthusiastic for its future, must be employed to fill these positions.

The American merchant marine is endangered by the propaganda and the determination of the British to suppress it and put it in disfavor. Foreign born will not change their feelings overnight, in loyalty, in ambition and in a patriotic desire to upbuild the most important of American industries and this vitally essential asset in war.

American Marine or None.

There are Americans with sufficient ability to fill every office under the control of the U. S. Shipping Board. There are Americans of experience and efficiency sufficient to man every boat in the American merchant marine. This is a proven fact in spite of the constant British propaganda to the contrary.

Either these American positions should be filled by Americans immediately or the American government should at once declare its inability to establish a merchant marine and stop further expenditures and relieve the people of this heavy burden of expense.

We can no longer be indifferent to the danger which threatens American shipping. It is an insidious, carefully planned and well worked out British campaign to hold the shipping of the world, which the defeat of Germany placed in their hands.

The hiring of aliens is not based upon the lack of American seamen. We have in the United States enough able, experienced and competent American-born seamen to man, from master to mess boy, every vessel in the American merchant marine.

This discrimination against Americans is prompted by two motives; one, the alien who intends to man the boat with his own countrymen, and the other, the shipowners who will take anything to save themselves a dollar.

Expensive Economy

This idea of economy has proved to be an expensive one. But the expense is borne by our government. Alien crews turn our beautiful ships into wrecks. And when they are no longer fit for service, they are turned back to the government to be put into condition at the government's expense.

The S. S. America, on its first trip after being built at a tremendous expense to our government, was manned almost entirely by aliens. It carried in the engine rooms one hundred and twenty Chinamen, and in other departments a majority of German aliens.

America prohibits the employment of Chinamen in America, but allows these American boats sailing under the American flag employ Chinamen? Hundreds of native-born Americans, experienced and efficient, applied for jobs on the America and were turned away in favor of the alien.

Yet the America was favored by the Postoffice Department to the extent that it carried the biggest lot of mail ever carried out on an American boat. Does this boat, discriminating against American seamen and being manned with aliens, deserve this consideration? Will it get it on the next trip?

Why?

Pet Peeves of Patient People

What got your goat today? You'll feel better if you tell the Pet Peeve Editor of the Boston American about it.

Why is it at a busy newsstand some people will insist on dipping down half way through the pile of papers or magazines to get a copy instead of taking the top one? They surely don't do this at home with the bread place.—BOSTON & MAINE.

Why do occupants of autos take it upon themselves to stick their hands out when the driver does?—A DRIVER.

Why the three-mile limit if one can obtain all and more than he can carry almost any place in Boston?—J. H. D.

Why do they call the nice things Lizzies?—KISSING BUG.

Why do fellows come to a party half-shaved?—M. C. B.

Why the unintelligible, nonmeaning names of millionaire's yachts?—GRANT CANNON.

SHIFT YOUR SETTING IF THERE IS NEED

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

HUMAN beings are mineral, vegetable, or animal. To which kingdom do you belong?

If you are mineral, then you are sure to stay put, where you find yourself. That is, unless you are kicked, or blown up.

If you are vegetable, even if only a small potato, you are likely at least to reach towards the light and to feel the friendly pangs of growth. But, alas, you lack locomotion. You are rooted!

If you are animal—whether worm, bird, sheep or monkey; whether you crawl, fly, follow, or climb; at any rate, you move, and nothing can stop your progress—except laziness or lack of desire!

Yes, there are these three types of human beings. If you are a rocky fellow, there is no use in sweating at you. If you are inclined, by nature, to vegetate, there is no use in berating you; perhaps your offspring will cross the line and be born animate.

But, if you are any kind of an animal, there is all kinds of hope for you!

Bound to Obey

Then, however, you are bound to obey the law of your being and to use your power of locomotion. Thereafter you must move, and keep on moving.

Then you are the special bearer of the burden of all animal life. And, particularly, you carry the blessing (perhaps, it is the curse) of man, and you must always seek and find a setting in which you will be fit to survive.

The Darwinian doctrine of the survival of the fittest sounds harsh and merciless; but it may as well be faced. All living nature has had to face it, and to find or make conditions in which the species or the individual could survive, and thereby prove its fitness to live.

Whatever mystery there may be in man's story on this planet, there can be no doubt that he has always had to keep on the march, readjusting himself or changing his setting, in this goodly frame, the earth.

Only those who had the courage to exchange their rooted, vegetable state for the more animate and moving one, survived when stern necessity called for action.

These are the virile stocks, the worthy pioneers of history; these who conquered the wilderness of the Hesperides; who obeyed man's migratory impulse, who caused the course of empire to take its way westward.

One Reason

Do you know one reason, among many others, for the marvelous human worth of America? Do you know what, of all other riches with which this wonderful continent is endowed, makes our country inexhaustibly rich in human resources?

It is the simple fact that we are a nation of immigrants!

Perhaps you would better envy than pity the newcomer! He may be the nobler, nativer type of human being, as compared with your immobile, vegetable kind, or your static, mineral sort.

Perhaps even now you would do well to heed Horace Greeley's advice, to go West and grow up with your country! If not by actual migration, then by giving your spirit a jolt.

In any given location of our United States, pride of ancestry is not so valuable as responsibility to posterity. The live workers and not the backward lookers will build the America of our dreams!

What has held true of the whole animate world, and specifically of the human race and more particularly of America, applies with tremendous force to the individual.

If you want your individuality not only to survive, but also to thrive, you must find or make the conditions which fit you.

Personality May Call

Leave all and follow me, may be the call of your personality, urging you to seek the setting which it needs in order that you may be really you.

No loosening or lessening of responsibility is involved in this suggestion to escape the tyranny or the blighting unsympathy of family relationships. The integrity of family life demands the fulfillment of all genuine domestic responsibility.

Is your life somewhat of a problem to you?

You may need a change of mind; so that your work will better express you.

It may be that your situation demands a change of setting. Then you must use the human animal's privilege and power to move. That change may be a saving of you.

But if your judgment holds you where you are, then bring to bear your utmost artistry in living towards improving both the frame and the picture of which you are a part.

THE GREAT QUESTION

When I make my lifetime exit,
When I go to meet my fate,
Will my years of subway training
Get me through the Golden Gate?
